'COPPER KING' DOW ARRESTED

Stephen R. Dow, former head of the suspended brokerage house of S. R. Dow & Co., surrendered to Police Inspector Waite at headquarters at 2:30 this afternoon and was placed under arrest on a warrant charging him with larceny of $146,000 from the Franklin and Algomah Mining companies, of which he was president.

The complaint alleges that Dow took $103,764 from the Franklin Mining Company between February 16, 1911, and August 17, 1912, and that he took $43,000 from the Algomah Mining Company between July 17, 1910, and April 8, 1912.

Dow went to police headquarters with his attorney, Fred Williams, and a third man. They walked up from Mr. Williams' office at No. 60 Congress street, across Tremont row and up Pemberton square hill, where a battery of photographers were waiting in expectation of Dow's arrival. Dow wore a black overcoat over his business suit. His face was shaded by the broad brim of a felt hat.

The three men descended quickly to the inspectors' rooms at headquarters where Dow surrendered to Inspector Waite. After he was formally arrested he was taken upstairs before Chief Inspector McGarr, where he was booked. Then he was led downstairs to be photographed for the "rogue's gallery."

Dow was held in $50,000 bail by Judge Ely in Boston Municipal Criminal Court for a continued hearing on October 17. In default of this big bail Dow was taken to Charles street jail.

When Dow was brought into court a case, which was being tried, was halted. Dow's name was called by Clerk Loud. Dow stepped forward and his counsel Fred Williams, who is also his assignee, waived reading of the complaint and pleaded not guilty for the former broker.

Assistant District Attorney Webber asked for a fortnight's continuance, with $50,000 bail.

Mr. Williams objected to the bail figure. He told the Court that Dow had been a Bostonian for a long time, is now in serious business trouble and has known for two weeks that this action was pending against him, but had not fled to get away.

"I told the District Attorney," said Williams, "that I would produce Dow if wanted. Mr. Dow is now without funds or property. I think $10,000 or $15,000 would be sufficient bail and I am prepared to furnish that."

Judge Ely replied that the amount of the alleged larceny is so great that he was unable to tell how much of this property Dow might have.

RECORDS GO AT BROCKTON FAIR

BROCKTON, Oct. 3.—All records were broken at the Brockton Fair today, this being Boston Day. At noon there are over 75,000 on the grounds.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 2.—The champion Red Sox play the first game of their closing series with the Athletics today. In these three games the new signals, which have been planned, will be tried out so as to get the players accustomed to them before the World Series.

The Athletics will take off the part of the Giants. They will try their best to demonstrate the Giants' style of fielding, of batting and of attack. The leading base stealers on the Athletics will pilfer the sacks more often than usual so as to get the wings of the Red Sox backstops into proper working shape for McGraw's wild base runners.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Red Sox—Hooper out on a fast play, Collins to McInnes. Yerkes singled to right and died stealing, Egan to Collins. Speaker walked. Lewis sent a high fly to Maggert, who made a great running catch. NO RUNS.

Athletics—Murphy beat out a hit to Engle. Maggert lined into Engle's glove, who made a quick throw to Stahl, doubling Murphy off first. Collins drove a single to left and stole second on Cady's ball threw. Baker walked. McInnes fouled to Cady. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Red Sox—Engle walked. Stahl hit into a fast double play, Collins to Barry to McInnes. Wagner drove a hot single in right. Cady fouled to McInnes. NO RUNS.

Athletics—Walsh flied to Hooper, Wood threw out Barry. Egan walked. Brown boosted a high one to Lewis. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Red Sox—Wood out, Barry to McInnes. Collins tossed out Hooper. Yerkes hit to Baker, who threw him out. NO RUNS.

Athletics—Murphy lined to Lewis in left centre. Duffy got the ball square in his mitt but dropped it. Murphy took second on a wild pitch. Engle took Maggert's grounder and threw him out, holding Murphy on second. Collins beat out a hit to Wagner, Murphy going to third. Baker boosted a long fly to the left field scoreboard for a home run, scoring Murphy and Collins ahead of him. Yerkes threw out McInnes. Walsh hit a short fly to the right field line, the ball bounded out of Hooper's reach and Walsh got three bases. Barry went out, Yerkes to Stahl. THREE RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Red Sox—Speaker lined to Maggert. Barry threw out Lewis. Maggert took Engle's fly in short left centre after a long run. NO RUNS.

Athletics—Egan and Brown both struck out, Wood tossed out Murphy. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Red Sox—Stahl walked. Wagner flied to Murphy. Cady doubled to the right field fence, scoring Stahl. Wood sacrificed, Egan to Walsh, sliding the bases. Yerkes out, Walsh to Barry. Hooper walked, forcing Cady home. Speaker beat out a hit by cutting four balls, and Wood scored. Lewis caught one of Brown's shoots on the end of his bat and lined it to the left centre field fence for a home run. It was a beautiful hit and scored Hooper, Yerkes and Speaker ahead of him. Barry threw out Engle. Stahl doubled to the right field fence.

Wagner singled to right, scoring Stahl with his second run of the inning. Murphy bluffed a throw to the plate and Wagner was caught off first, Murphy to McInnes. EIGHT RUNS.

Larry Gardner Joins Champion Red Sox

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Larry Gardner, the clever Red Sox infielder who broke the little finger of his right hand when the team was in Detroit, joined the champions here today. Gardner was feeling in excellent spirits and says that he will be in his best when the Red Sox and Giants clash in the opening game of the world series in New York Tuesday.

Larry worked out with the team this afternoon and showed a great deal of "pep." Larry's finger is still tender, and he has it carefully protected by a case. He will not take any chances until the world series opens.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, Oct. 3.—Manager Doolin's Phillies, the last team to come here, open up a three-game series with the Pilgrims today. After this series the players of both teams will trend their way homeward.

The Phillies are the leaders of the second division and hardly hope to get out of that position. There is a slim chance, however, and the men from Slowtown will try their best to make a clean-up of the series.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Phillies—Paskert fanned, Lody singled to centre. Magee singled to left, Miller fanned and Lody was doubled trying to steal third, Gowdy to Devlin. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Campbell opened with a drive into the centre field bleachers for a home run. Devlin popped to Luderus. Sweeney singled over second. Kirke dropped one in front of Miller and it bounded over Miller's head for two bases. Titus hit to Luderus, who made a wild toss past first, Sweeney scoring and Kirke taking third. Houser fouled to Luderus. Dodge threw out Maranville. TWO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Pilgrims—Gowdy singled to centre. Boyle threw out Donnelly. Campbell was retired, Walsh to Luderus, Gowdy taking third. Devlin lifted to Paskert. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Phillies—Dodge out. Devlin to Houser. Maranville's throw beat Boyle. Nelson asked to Titus. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Sweeney popped to Luderus. Kirke singled through Shortstop Titus dropped a safety in centre, Houser lined to Miller. Nelson tossed out Maranville. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Phillies—Paskert beat out a hit to short. Luderus singled to right. Magee doubled to deep centre, scoring Paskert and Luderus. Miller singled over second, Magee stopping at third. Walsh flied to Campbell, Magee scoring, Miller went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Dolan's single to centre which Campbell allowed to pass him, the runner reaching third. Donelly tossed out Dodge. Boyle flied, Sweeney to Houser. FOUR RUNS.

Pilgrims—Gowdy flied to Miller. Dolan threw out Donnelly. Campbell beat out a hit to Luderus. Devlin grounded to Luderus. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Phillie—Nelson, out, Donelly to Houser. Paskert fined to Kirke in deep left. Luderus tripled to right. Magee popped to Maranville. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Boyle threw out Sweeney. Kirke singled to left. Titus struck out, Dodge threw out Houser. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Phillie—Nelson, out, Donelly to Houser. Paskert fined to Kirke in deep left. Luderus tripled to right. Magee popped to Maranville. NO RUNS.

CHARGE DETECTIVE HARBORED DESERTER

Harry A. Wright, manager of a local detective agency, was placed on trial today in the United States District Court, in charge of harboring a deserter from the United States Navy. It is alleged that the deserter was a sailor named Bean. Bean testified that Wright had employed him to locate deserters from the navy and would later turn them over to the navy yard at Charlestown and receive a reward of $50 for each man.

LAUREL RESULTS.

FIRST RACE—One mile: Star Jessamine, 11-2, 5-2, even, 1; Sir Dorrik, 5-2, even, 2; Kind Sir, 10-1, 4-1, 2-1, 3. Time, 1:41. Countess, Monster Jr., Camilla, Sunrise II., Sir Dorrik, Lucky Deuce, Sir Glen also ran.

MORGAN TELLS OF $150,000 GIFT TO T. R.

ARCHBOLD, HOME AGAIN, SAYS ROOSEVELT KNEW ALL ABOUT THE $100,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Among the passengers arriving today on the White Star liner Majestic was John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil Company.

Mr. Archbold repeated his statement, made before the Senate campaign fund investigating committee, that the Standard Oil Company in 1904, contributed $100,000 to the Roosevelt campaign.

"I still stand by what I said," declared Mr. Archbold, "There is absolutely no question as to the giving of the money and absolutely no question as to our understanding. Mr. Roosevelt knew that the money was given and the purpose for which it was given."

"Do you still consider suing Colonel Roosevelt for libel?" he was asked.

"You will have to excuse me, gentlemen," was his smiling reply.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—J. P. Morgan told the Senate committee investigating campaign contributions today that he contributed $150,000 in 1904 to the Republican fund which furthered the election of Theodore Roosevelt. This money was given in two payments—the first of $100,000 in October and the second of $50,000 in November.

The committee had already learned that $100,000 had been contributed by J. P. Morgan & Co., in 1904, but the statement as to the additional $50,000 came as a surprise. Mr. Morgan also stated that he contributed $20,000 to the Republican campaign fund in 1908. In this year William H. Taft was the Republican candidate for President. The amount given that year was $180,000 less than that of 1904.

"I want it distinctly understood that J. P. Morgan & Co. never contributed to any campaign fund under a promise of return or immunity. We contributed only for the good of the country and we never got any return for our $150,000," said Mr. Morgan during cross-examination.

Charles H. Duell, assistant treasurer of the Republican National Committee in 1904, followed Mr. Morgan on the stand. He testified that three insurance companies in New York city gave $50,000 each to the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1904.

In anticipation of startling testimony by the Wall Street king, a large number of persons gathered early in the committee room, occupying all the available chairs, before the morning session was called to order.

Mr. Morgan arrived in the committee room promptly at 10 o'clock, accompanied by H. L. Satterlee and his daughter. At 10:06 the committee was called to order with Mr. Morgan on the stand.

On being sworn, Mr. Morgan gave his

DEDHAM "FAN" GETS 1ST TICKET

Sumner Thompson of Dedham was the first baseball fan of Greater Boston to buy seats for the world's series between the Red Sox and the Giants when the sale of reserved seats opened at Fenway Park at 11 o'clock today. Thompson presented a card and money for two tickets, and was given seats 14 and 15 in Section J, Row 20. The tickets are, of course, for the three games dated for Boston. They are in the grandstand and near Mr. Thompson still.

Tickets were sold from four booths, with 150 fans waiting when the sale began.

The sale was scheduled to close at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to give time for the receipts to be banked. It will reopen tomorrow morning at 9.

residence as No. 219 Madison avenue, New York, and his occupation as banker.

Questioned on $100,000 Demand.

Senator Clapp then read to him a clipping containing a statement by Charles Edward Russell, in which the writer charged that Theodore Roosevelt from the White House demanded that Morgan raise $100,000 additional to the sum the banker had already contributed for Roosevelt's fight against Parker in 1904. The clipping told of a visit made by Wayne MacVeagh to the office of Mr. Morgan in October of 1904, at which time Morgan was called to the telephone to talk to "somebody in Washington."

The money king sat silently while Senator Clapp read the long newspaper clipping, at the end of which the chairman of the investigating committee asked:

"Do you recall an incident of this kind?

"None at all."

"Do you recall a visit of Macveagh to your office?"

"No, I don't, but he may have come there. The circumstance of the telephone is a fiction made of whole cloth. I never had any communication through the mails or over the telephone wires with President Roosevelt in my life."

Admits Giving $150,000.

"Did you contribute to the Republican campaign of 1904?"

"I did."

"How much?"

After consulting his notes, the witness replied:

"In October I gave them $100,000, and added $50,000 more on November 1st."

Q.—Was this all you gave the Republican fund? A.—It was.

Q.—Were there any other contributions made by you to the 1904 campaign? A.—None that I recall.

Q.—Who solicited the contribution of $100,000? A.—I assume it was Cornelius Bliss.

Q.—Do you recall the fact of making this contribution? A.—No, but the records show that it was made.

Q.—To whom was the second contribution of $50,000 in November, 1904, made? A.—I do not recall.

Q.—Did Mr. Harriman solicit any contributions from you? A.—No, I knew nothing of his campaign fund except what I have heard since.

Q.—He never solicited of you? A.—I don't think Mr. Harriman ever solicited any money from me.

Q.—Do you recall any circumstances attending your second contribution of $50,000. A.—There were a number of men in this. I think Mr. Bliss came over on one occasion and Mr. Odell on another.

Q.—Do you recall whether the contribution was paid to Mr. Odell? A.—My impression is that it was paid through the national committee and most of it went into New York State. This was the day before election.

Gave $20,000 in 1908.

Q.—Do you know of any contribution to the 1904 campaign fund made to the congressional committee? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know of any other campaign contributions in 1904 to the Republican campaign by any of your associates? A.—I do not.

Q.—Did you make as contributions in 1904 to the congressional campaign committee? A.—No, I don't remember any.

Q.—In 1908 did you make any contribution to the national campaign committee? A.—The only one I made was of $20,000 to Mr. Sheldon. I think that is all. It was paid in cash, not by check.

Q.—Then I understand that the only record of these contributions would be in your cash book? A.—Yes, but I have no doubt where it went.

Q.—Do you recall having made any contribution to the congressional campaign in 1906? A.—Mr. Sherman, the chairman, called on me once, but I don't remember what for. I have no record of any payment and if I did make any, it was nothing of any magnitude.

Q.—You may state whether you made any contribution to any of the three campaign committees in 1912. A.—I did not. I was out of the country.

Q.—Or any of your associates? A.—None that I know of. By none of my firm anyway.

Q.—Do you recall any one in New York in the Fall of 1906 calling you up by telephone? A.—No.

Examined by Paynter.

Q.—You know of no basis for this telephone story then? A.—Absolutely none.

Senator Paynter then took up the examination, going back over the witness's previous testimony concerning his contributions.

Q.—Did the $100,000 you gave come as a personal gift? A.—No, it came from the firm.

Q.—Was E. H. Harriman present at the time you turned the money over to Bliss? A.—He was not.

Q.—Was your $100,000 contribution a part of Harriman's $250,000 fund? A.—I have no doubt of it in my own mind, but I have no proof of it.

Morgan added that Bliss was a warm personal friend of his and because of that he (Bliss) was always selected to importune the money king for money. Mr. Morgan said in reply to question that he did not know that George W. Perkins contributed to the Republican fund of 1904. He was sure Perkins did not.

know that George W. Perkins contributed to the Republican fund of 1904. He was sure Perkins did not.

By Senator Pomerene:

Q.—Did your firm contribute to the campaigns of any of the other Presidential parties of 1904? A.—I have no knowledge of anything being done in that way.

Talked with Mellen.

Q.—During the campaign of 1904 did you have any conversation with the financiers? A.—I have no doubt I did. I don't remember.

Q.—Did you have any talk with E. H. Harriman. A.—Very likely.

Q.—You talked with President Mellen, of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, concerning the political situation? A.—It is very likely I did.

Q.—Did you discuss it with any of the heads of the big life insurance companies? A.—I really can't say; it's too far back for me to remember.

Q.—Did you discuss which candidate to support? A.—Not that I recollect.

Q.—Did you talk with Mr. Bliss about other contributors? A.—I probably gave him some advice.

"I Am My Firm."

Q.—Were you especially interested in the result of 1904? A.—I was.

Q.—Also your firm? A.—I am my firm.

Q.—Do you know of any others particularly interested in the result of the election? A.—All the other big financial men were interested.

Q.—Was George W. Perkins very much interested? A.—As a big insurance man, he probably was.

Q.—What were the facts Mr. Perkins gave you touching the insurance companies? A.—I don't remember. At that time Perkins was a trustee of the New York Life Insurance Company and when he would come for a meeting I would say: 'Perkins, how do they feel down there today?'

Q.—Did you have information during the campaign at any time that there was to be a large fund raised for the Roosevelt campaign? A.—I never heard of it. I don't believe it.

Q.—Did you have any talk with Mr. Harriman on the railroad situation and the political effect on the railroads? A.—I doubt it.

Q.—Did Harriman report to you at any time that he had a talk with Theodore Roosevelt on railroads? A.—I don't remember any, but I have no doubt he did.

Q.—Did you talk to Harriman and then decide to support the Republican campaign? A.—I did not; there was never any large combination of interests to support or oppose any candidate.

Q.—Did you and Mr. Mellen or Mr. Harriman call on any financiers in 1909 to urge them to support the Republican nominee? A.—We did not.

Q.—Was there at any time a conference between the financial interests relating to the nomination of any man on the Democratic ticket who would be acceptable? A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Did you make any contributions to the Democratic national fund in 1904? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know of any? A.—No.

Q.—How often did you talk to Harriman about the political situation? A.—Not very often.

Q.—How often? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you discuss the disposition of the incoming administration toward any of your interests? A.—Yes; but not specifically.

Q.—Did you talk to Cortelyou during the campaign? A.—Yes.

Hundreds of Bargain Lots Are Not Advertised

ONLY a few representative bargains in the newspapers: Hundreds of lots in the basement every day.

The other opportunities await those shoppers who have learned to make it a practice to walk through the Automatic Bargain Basement every day. Are YOU one of these?

Today we mention specimen examples of the savings in Hats, Shoes, Skirts, Dresses and Stockings.

But the many bargains in Jewelry, Coats, Suits, Girls' Dresses, Leather Goods, Toilet Goods, Men's and Boys' Shoes, Men's and Boys' Coats, Men's and Boys' Furnishings, Women's Neckwear, Marabout, and other lines are not specified here.

Hundreds of lots at extraordinary FIRST prices, not mentioned in the advertisements.

Many lots automatically reduced 25%, 50% and 75% advertised only by signs.

Many times lots are not advertised because they are so small or so extraordinary that they would be sold before the advertisement appears.

NO MORE PUFFS, SAYS LADY DUFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Lady Duff-Gordon, Lucile, Europe's leading authority on styles and fashions, arrived in this city on the steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie for a short visit. She will return to England on November 17.

"Simplicity is the rule of fashion today," she said. "If one wants to be in the height of fashion one must wear clothing as simple as that worn by the school boy. In fact, fashionable women at present are trying to make their heads as small as the head of the average boy.

"Rats and puffs, curls and other artificial hair increasers have been ruthlessly thrown to one side. The stylish coiffure is the one that discards all artificial aids and makes the hair on top of the head as thin as possible. The hair is now braided at the sides and coiled over the ears and the sides of the face." Many of the passengers on this boat had their hair dressed in that manner."

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—"Women butchers, women poultry raisers, and women provision merchants would not only help very greatly to reduce the cost of living, but women engaged in these enterprises would help to solve the industrial problems which make life for the working-woman of the city more difficult year by year."

Declaring that the market experiment which Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont is carrying on, in connection with her suffrage lunch rooms at Nos. 13-15 East Forty-first street, has shown that the cost of living can be cut by direct marketing, Mrs. Mary A. Morgan, in charge of this work, made the above suggestion.

"Women Could Be Butchers."

"There is no reason why women should not be successful butchers," continued Mrs. Morgan, "with a trained corps of women helpers, she could advise poor and inefficient housekeepers as to the best cuts of meat that will meet their needs, and the size of the family purse. They could also point out to them the best way to cook meats to retain their highest nourishing values. This one thing in itself is a big factor in solving the problem of high living."

"Would there be a profit for the woman butcher?" Mrs. Morgan was asked.

"Certainly," she replied, "I have already proved that, by this market department which Mrs. Belmont has opened. Mrs. Belmont's idea, you see, is not to make money out of this experiment, but merely to point a valuable lesson to housewives and working women. But with my long experience in marketing, I could be certain of making a handsome profit out of the provision business, and at the same time sell at attractively low prices.

"Middlemen a Deadly Trust."

"The horde of middlemen represent a trust that is as deadly injurious to the housewife's interests as any trust in existence. Last Summer, in Newport, tenderloin steak that they were asking $1 for they bought in New York for seventy-eight cents.

"Cost of food this Winter will reach its highest mark," predicted Mrs. Morgan, "and this fact should compel women to study the problem of food, instead of just sitting down and blaming everybody for it."

Madam, Does Your Husband Drink?

Hundreds of Wives Now Keeping Their Husbands Sober

There is no excuse for letting a man come home week after week with only half his wages. His money needn't go to the rumseller and his family go hungry or go without suitable clothes.

If he won't quit drinking of his own free will, give him Anti-Jag—the tasteless, harmless, secret remedy that has won hundreds of men back to sobriety and brings happiness to the whole family. Just put a little Anti-Jag in his tea or coffee and after a while he'll be like a new man. Get a package of Anti-Jag at the drugstore and try it. If you follow the directions faithfully and it doesn't help him, get your money back.

If you'd like to try it—free—before you buy a whole package, write in confidence to the Renova Co., 304 Broadway, New York, for a sample and proofs of what Anti-Jag does for victims of intemperance.

WILL ABANDON HULL SERVICE NEXT MONDAY

The Nantasket Steamboat Company has given peremptory notice of its intention to sew up the shore town of Hull twenty-four days ahead of time.

The notice came in the form of handbills, distributed in Hull, that the steamboat service will be discontinued on and after next Monday, October 7.

In view of the fact that the company HAD ANNOUNCED—AND HAD PRINTED ON ITS TIMETABLES—that the steamboat service would be maintained until November 1, the disagreeable surprise to Hull cottagers may be imagined.

Some 600 Summer residents who have been planning for four weeks more in which to enjoy the beach and make plans for returning to town, find themselves suddenly ordered to return home in four days, for that is what the discontinuance of the boat service means to the average cottager at Hull.

Forced Line to Recede.

Last year the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company served notice that it would reduce its service by several trips after Labor Day.

A vigorous protest was made by patrons of the line through the AMERICAN. The grasp of this company upon the transportation situation and the prosperity of the concern were shown by the AMERICAN.

The result was that the company receded a little and extended its regular service beyond the time it had intended.

The company last night suddenly announced a cessation of boat service over three weeks ahead of the time previously announced.

The reason given is that the new federal regulations calling for additional lifeboats require more lifeboats than the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company is able to obtain now on account of the shortage in the lifeboat market.

Cottagers Puzzled.

Yet excursion companies have repeatedly secured extensions of time from the federal authorities owing to the impossibility of getting lifeboats immediately.

What puzzles Hull cottagers who wish to remain at the beach for the time they originally planned is why the Nantasket company should suddenly find it had to wait for lack of lifeboats at this particular time.

A Hull cottager, when told that the lifeboat rules are making the company cease running now, asked:

Well, why can't they double up! instead of running three boats to make full schedule, let them take off two boats and put all their lifeboats on one steamer. This steamer could make two morning and two night trips, anyhow, so that the company could keep to its timetable announcement of running till November 1.

It is well known that the big business of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company, with its 25-cent fare each way, declines so after Labor Day that business is carried on at a loss for the balance of the season.

But the argument is made by the South Shore patrons that, in return for its profitable Summer business, the company is bound, as a public service corporation, to maintain at least a partial service until November 1, in order to make it worth while for city people to invest in Hull and Nantasket property and live there through the Summer.

The Hull cottagers, from Pemberton down to Green Hill, were boiling today over the company's circular announcement of no boats on and after next Monday.

Many who have to get city apartments before they can come out in the Winter found themselves suddenly forced to drop everything else and find an apartment in four days, one of which is Sunday.

While the Summer business at the beach is slight now, still many cottage proprietors and storekeepers, figuring on a certain patronage till November 1, had made plans accordingly. These, too, are disrupted at the prospective curtailment of boat service.

"Forced to Close Season."

F. L. Lane, the new general manager of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company, was asked by an AMERICAN reporter:

"Mr. Lane, why have you decided so suddenly to close the beach earlier than so many of your patrons desire to remain for days, one of which is Sunday?"

"We are absolutely obliged to by the new government regulations."

"What is the nature of economy?"

"Nothing of the sort. We had expected to run until November 1 and only a week ago we had bought coal enough to supply the steamboats until November 1. Help was engaged to that date and but for the new steamboat regulations relating to life-saving apparatus we would have continued running boats until November."

"Are the boats showing a profit?"

"We don't expect them to at this season of the year. We were just running them for accommodation of our patrons."

"What are these regulations that oppress you so?"

"The latest one and one which finally decided our action was the ruling which we only received yesterday, which cut the capacity of our new life rafts from a ruling of twenty-eight to fifteen persons on the large rafts and from fourteen to seven on the small rafts. These are new rafts and under the old rating were allowed ten cubic feet for each person. The new rating requires twenty cubic fet per person.

New Raft Regulations.

"Under the basis of life equipment for 50 per cent. of the people on board, including the passengers and crew, they could only carry 450 people on the Betty Alden, our largest and best equipped boat. Beginning October 1, we had to have lifeboat capacity sufficient for a place on a boat or raft for every person on board. That would cut the Betty Alden's carrying capacity. Then they deliberately reduced the ratings of the life rafts at present, and you can see where we are at. We are so hampered by rules and regulations we can hardly call the crew on board. The boats are now top-heavy with life-saving apparatus."

"What are you going to do next Summer?"

"I don't know. The New York excursion boats gave it up September 16 and I should show you a telegram advising me to do the same thing. I don't blame the local inspectors. They are only doing their duty. But the people got very much excited about life boats after the Titanic disaster. The Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company has never lost a passenger and has carried millions."

TO DEDICATE TABLET.

SALEM, Oct. 3.—President Taft will dedicate a bronze tablet to the memory of officers and men of the First Heavy Artillery, Massachusetts Volunteers, who fell in the Civil War, at 3 o'clock tomorrow at the Essex Institute. The tablet is designed by Bela Pratt.

FEAR FIGHT ON G. O. P. PLANKS

There may be a fight on the floor of the Republican State convention in Tremont Temple Saturday over the G. O. P. platform upon which former Speaker Joseph Walker will seek to defeat Governor Foss and Charles S. Bird.

The contest, if it comes, and it is extremely probable, will be between progressive and standpat Republicans.

Charles S. Baxter, former mayor of Medford, head of the Association of Progressive Republicans, composed of Republicans who supported Roosevelt in the primary but have remained within the party, have notified Chairman Channing Cox of the convention committee on resolutions of several planks which the progressive believe should be put in the party platform.

Every effort will be made to get the resolutions committee to agree to the planks advocated by the progressives so that a fight on the floor of the convention will be unnecessary. But if this fails, an open convention fight is practically certain to take place.

What They Want.

Among the measures advocated by the progressives are some which are almost certain to prove objectionable to the Lodge-Crane machine and it is therefore doubtful if the resolutions committee will stand for many, if any, of the proposed reforms.

The progressives want:

A plank in favor of a national commission to regulate the price and quality of food products.

A plank endorsing the direct election of United States Senators by the people.

An indorsement of presidential primaries and the direct election of delegates to national conventions.

That the federal income tax be advocated.

A plank favoring the initiative and referendum.

That young Republicans be encouraged to take a more active part in the councils of the party and be nominated for office more frequently.

No fight will be made for a plank in favor of the recall of judges, as the progressives are satisfied with the method in vogue in Massachusetts, under which the Legislature can remove any judge who is proven inefficient.

Burrill to Lead Fight.

Progressive Republicans declared today that a majority of the committee on resolutions would be with them in their fight for progressive planks. Charles L. Burrill, Boston banker, who led the Roosevelt alternates-at-large slate in the primaries, is a member of the committee on resolutions. Burrill will conduct the fight in the committee for the progressive planks.

A speakers' bureau has been established by the Association of Progressives and placed in charge of ex-Senator "Dan" Lane.

Among those who have already volunteered their services are Charles S. Baxter, Fred J. Daggett, Senator Charles H. Brown of Medford, Representative John H. Cagswell of Lynn and Daniel C. Bailey, former Lieutenant-Governor Louis A. Frothingham is also expected to speak under the auspices of the Association of Progressives.

CIVIL SERVICE FOR CITY COLLECTORS

The city collecting department will soon be placed in the classified service, according to an announcement by Mayor Fitzgerald today. At present the city collector's office and the city treasury are the only municipal departments outside the civil service. According to today's announcement at City Hall, the Mayor's arraignment of the city collecting office was prompted by a report which expert accountants made after a careful investigation of the office. The report several recommendations were made, and the Mayor says he proposes to adopt them without further delay.

Thanks Daughters of Mayor for Aid to Commerce Women

Francis Peabody, chairman of the ladies' entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has written to the daughters of Mayor Fitzgerald congratulating them for their services in entertaining the visitors to the recent convention of Chambers of Commerce. He says:

Dear Misses Fitzgerald—I am instructed by the members of the committee on the entertainment of ladies who accompanied the delegates to the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce to express to you our very sincere thanks for your co-operation in making the visit of our guests agreeable and in every way successful.

I undertake to carry out these instructions most willingly and to thank you most heartily. Your attendance at the various functions did much to make them go off well, and it was a real joy to the French and German ladies to be able to converse with you in their native tongues.

May I also ask you to convey to Mrs. Fitzgerald my personal thanks for so graciously participating and allowing her name to appear as an honorary member of the ladies' committee?

I am sure that our visitors carried away a high appreciation of the hospitality of Boston and of its Mayor, his wife and his daughters.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRIGON.

The death of David Brown on the Milwaukee race course removes from the automobile racing field one of its most prominent figures, and causes deep sorrow among the men who have competed against him in many races, as well as in the minds of thousands upon thousands who have followed motor racing for years.

This fatal accident brings to mind the fact that of late years the racing fatalities have in the main been prior to the holding of the contests themselves. The Grand Prize race has been a particularly noticeable one for this fact, as the day prior to the holding of the first of these contests at Savannah one of the drivers was killed.

A similar experience occured at Savannah last year, when another driver was killed some two or three days prior to the race. This year Milwaukee furnished the fatality and Bruce-Brown was the one Fate selected as the victim. Ever since the Grand Prize race was first given to Savannah accidents of a serious nature have occurred in the races themselves, the fatalities all preceding the events.

The Thomas B. Jeffery Company is exhibiting at the Commonwealth avenue salesroom a handsome cup, which was won by Harold A. Upton, of North Reading, at the Wakefield-Reading Fair recently. It was the first prize awarded in the class for the lone looking and the smoothest running car on high gears. Mr. Upton secured the trophy with his Cross-Country Rambler that he has driven 4,700 miles.

The third annual reliability contest of the Automobile Club of Buffalo, which in importance ranks second only to the Glidden Tour, was won by a Maxwell car entered by Charles F. Monroe. The contest was conducted over a route of 830 miles and lasted four days.

This victory gives the Maxwell car its second leg on the handsome Lauren Hope trophy, which must be won three times before permanent possession is given. Mr. Monroe was a easy winner of the first contest in 1910, but in the 1911 competition he was put out of the running by an amateur racer who crashed into him on the first day of the tour.

This year, however, Mr. Monroe's entry finished with the only perfect score, his nearest competitor having been penalized at the end of the contest when a protest was made.

MAKES ATTACK ON HOLDING COS.

Attorney Joseph B. Eastman of the Public Franchise League made an attack upon voluntary associations or holding companies at a hearing before the special commission investigating such corporations at the State House.

He declared that legislation should be passed to permit the voluntary liquidation of existing holding companies.

"The term 'voluntary associations' is too good," said Attorney Eastman. "They should rather be called fake corporations. The voluntary associations attempt to do business in a corporate form without incorporate regulation.

These associations do the same thing in Massachusetts which holding corporations do in the other States. The situation in the State is absurd. It has carefully devised laws to regulate the conduct of business by public service corporations, but they can be evaded through these associations. The front door has been closed, but the back door has been left open.

These associations bring under one control the public service corporations and the private companies with which they do business. The Massachusetts Lighting Companies, for instance, controls lighting companies and at the same time controls the Light, Heat and Power Corporation of West Virginia, a supply and construction company. The Massachusetts Gas Company controls the New England Gas & Coke Company, which sells its product to the Boston Gas Company. The Attorney-General might well consider whether or not all combinations in restraint of trade."

He suggested that the recommendations of the Tax Commissioner be carried out—to prohibit an association acquiring more than 10 per cent. of the capital stock of any public service corporation and to compel full publicity. If an association wishes to liquidate, it should have the right to come before the Legislature and do so upon such terms as may be recommended by a special commission to be composed of the Railroad and Gas commissioners.

Robert F. Clapp, a trustee of the North Boston Lighting Companies, contended that voluntary associations do not really violate even the spirit of the anti-trust laws.

E. W. Burdett for the Massachusetts Electric Company, said, he preferred to wait for suggestions from those who favor legislation before answering for his clients. The hearing was continued until Oct. 24.

1,009 NEW POSTAL SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

Postmaster Mansfield announces that during September, at the central office and station and branch postoffices, 1009 new postal savings accounts were opened. The amount of deposits for the month were $87,474, and payments, $48,532. A summary of the postal savings system on October 1, since the service was inaugurated August 1, 1911, is as follows: Total number of accounts opened, 14,180; total amount of deposits, $929,230; total amount of payments, $406,260.

HELD AS AUTO THIEF.

Timothy J. Hennessey of No. 836 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, was held by Judge Fallon of the South Boston District Court in $1,000 for the Grand Jury for the larceny of an automobile, the property of Gidney Destley, a lawyer with an office on State street.

ROBBERS ROUT WALPOLE MEN

A band of yeggmen broke into the East Walpole postoffice early today, and after blowing the outer door of the safe were discovered and engaged in a battle with watchmen.

No one was injured and in the excitement the yeggs escaped.

They got only $5 in money orders.

They had started to pry off the inside door of the safe when watchmen from the mill of Charles S. Bird, the Bull Moose candidate for Governor, who were attracted by the sound of the explosion, arrived. The robbers immediately opened fire on the men, driving them to shelter.

Several shots were fired in the battle, and one of the robbers is believed to have been slightly wounded.

The police believe the yeggmen made the trip to the town in an automobile, leaving the machine in a wooded section of the road nearby.

Imbedded in the inner door of the safe which the yeggs attacked was found a large cake of soap with the finger prints of one of the yeggs. This soap was taken by Chief Reardon and closely guarded, as it may be the means of identifying the robbers.

Chief Inspector Letherman at Boston was notified of the break.

The federal authorities believe that it is one of a series of breaks which have been made by professional crackmen in this State during the past few months.

Walpole seems to be marked by yeggmen, for twice within the past year postoffices in the town have been entered.

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD ON COLLIER CHARGES

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—John D. Archbold, who returned from Europe today, was asked concerning the Standard Oil letters which have been made public in Hearst's Magazine. He was told that a story had been printed in Collier's charging that some of the quotations were forgeries.

"The matter of the letters will come up before the Senate committee," he said. "I did not hear of Collier's story before. I did hear of the publication of the letters, but did not give the matter much attention."

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri will speak in support of the Republican national administration here Friday night, according to an announcement by C. N. Williams, president of the Business Men's Republican Club.

WILSON GIVES SULZER PRAISE

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—The action of the New York Democratic State Convention in turning down the candidacy of Governor Sulzer in favor of Congressman William Sulzer is highly pleasing to Governor Wilson.

Being asked upon his arrival here to comment upon the work of the New York State Convention, the presidential nominee said:

"It was fine! It was splendid! The freedom both of action and of choice which the convention exercised must afford every Democrat great satisfaction. The reputation, independence and integrity of the New York gubernatorial nominee is unquestioned. Mr. Sulzer as chairman is one of the most important committees in Congress has shown capacity and discretion. He certainly deserves the suffrage of all interests and of every class. I am greatly gratified by the result of the convention."

Governor Wilson then sent a telegram of congratulation to each Democrat nominated on the State ticket by the convention.

Governor Wilson arrived in Indianapolis shortly after noon. The candidate was given an enthusiastic greeting. Crowds lined the streets from the Union Station to the Denison Hotel, where the New Jersey executive was quartered. Thomas Taggart, owner of the hotel, was one of those who greeted Wilson at the station and acted as his personal escort while in the city.

Governor Wilson came here to speak before the conservation congress this afternoon and at a political rally tonight.

Motor Trucks

Perishable Goods—How to Save Them

Perishable goods often are lost by failure to move them quickly.

At their very best horses are slow and uncertain. Horse, or animal, transportation is slow transportation—only one step ahead of oxen.

Perishable goods often are at the mercy of horse service. Horses do not travel faster than four miles an hour on the average. Moreover, they cannot haul beyond a certain capacity.

Alco motor trucks travel twelve miles an hour and one Alco truck—of 3½ tons—carries more than three times as much as one two-horse team.

If you have goods to be moved quickly—perishable goods or otherwise—the quickest, safest, most economical method is by Alco trucks.

There are many big concerns employing the Alco truck just for this very purpose—dairies, canneries, ice companies, fruit growers, ranchers, truck gardeners and so on. Write us for the names of some of these. Find out what they say.

FRANCE BUYS O'CONNOR BUST

PARIS, Oct. 3.—A marble bust of Edward Tuck by Andrew O'Connor of Massachusetts has just been bought by the French government for the Luxembourg Gallery here. This is the third occasion in which works exhibited by Mr. O'Connor in the French Salon have been acquired by the government. He is a pupil of Rodin.

Andrew O'Connor, who was born in Worcester thirty-five years ago, was called by St. Gaudens "the coming American sculptor." When he was sixteen O'Connor went to Chicago and helped to model figures for the "White City" at the World's Fair. Afterward he became associated with Daniel C. French in New York, and his work steadily improved. He went to Paris nine years ago and entered the atelier of Rodin. His talent won him early and widespread recognition.

Edward Tuck, the subject of the bust purchased by the French government, did much to aid Dartmouth College. He was a graduate of the college in 1862.

Breaks Tie by Vote Electing Rival Head of Tufts Senior Class

Frank B. Fairbanks of Passaic, N. J., has been elected president of the senior class at Tufts College, through the courtesy of his leading opponent, Vannevar Bush.

Bush was president of the class in their sophomore and junior years. When the first ballot for the senior election was taken, he led, with Fairbanks second, and several others in the race. No one had a majority.

On the second and third ballots, some of the tail-end candidates dropped out, and on the fourth the vote resulted in a tie between Bush and Fairbanks, with no other candidates receiving any votes.

Bush, as president of the class, was in the chair. It is not incumbent on him to exercise the prerogative of a presiding officer and break a tie vote. Nevertheless, he elected to do so, and cast a ballot for Fairbanks, electing his rival.

REHEARSE FOR BECKER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—In making his final preparations for the trial of Lieutenant Charles A. Becker for instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, District Attorney Whitman and his assistant, Mr. Moss, again today examined the State's witnesses in and out of prison, putting them through a dress rehearsal. Yesterday Mr. Whitman and Mr. Moss went to the West Side Prison and for almost five hours questioned their four principal witnesses, Rose, Vallon, Schepps and Webber. Despite attempts to trap them, none of the men made statements that conflicted seriously.

Louis Rosenberg, known as "Lefty Louie," the gunman who is said to have fired one of the shots that killed Rosenthal, was reported yesterday to have confessed everything to his father, Jacob Rosenberg, a reputable flour merchant of the Produce Exchange building. When the father was asked what his son had told him he replied:

"I won't talk about this matter at all. You must see my lawyer, Charles G. F. Wahle. Yes, I have been to see my son in the Tombs, but I will not tell what he told me."

Father and son had not seen or spoken to each other for almost a year. The elder Rosenberg quit the home and again had warned his son against associating with the gangsters of the East Side. The father offered to take the young man into his office.

MALDEN PROTESTS NEW "L" TERMINAL

A meeting of Malden citizens will be held tonight in the Malden High School hall to protest against the recent changes at the Sullivan Square Elevated Terminal. Malden and Everett people are forced, when leaving surface cars at Sullivan square, to climb a long flight of stairs, walk across a bridge and then descend another flight of stairs in order to reach trains for Boston.

REYNOLDS STRICKEN ON WITNESS STAND

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, was taken seriously ill with acute indigestion while on the witness stand in Federal Judge Landis' court, where he was testifying in the trial of Abraham Wesner Riverside road case. He was carried to the Judge's private rooms and later home.

MISSING $50,000 MURELLO SOUGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—A Murello, said to be worth more than $50,000, and formerly the property of Jerome Bonaparte, is missing, following the robbery at the Overbrook home of Mrs. John McMurdie Warner. The police have sent out a secret warning to all dealers and art collectors.

REVEAL DOCTOR'S ROMANCE AT WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Pierce, daughter of Mrs. Albert Pierce, to Percy W. Hodges of Newton, at her home, No. 13 Moultrie street, Dorchester, disclosed the romance of her sister, Miss Dorothy, whose engagement to Dr. Irving J. Walker was announced during the reception.

Dr. Walker performed an operation on Miss Dorothy and the romance began then.

LENGTHEN BETTING ODDS ON WILSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Odds on Governor Wilson have lengthened to 3½ to 1 in Wall Street. One commissioner said he had a client willing to bet $1,000 to $3,000 that Wilson would poll more votes than Taft and Roosevelt combined. Even money was bet that Taft would not carry seven States.

In Wages or Profit

health, sooner or later, shows its value. No man can expect to go very far or very fast toward success—no woman either—who suffers from the headaches, the sour stomach and poor digestion, the unpleasant breath and the good-for-nothing feelings which result from constipation and biliousness. But just learn for yourself what a difference will be made by a few doses of

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Tested through three generations—favorably known the world over this perfect vegetable and always efficient family remedy is universally accepted as the best preventive or corrective of disorders of the organs of digestion. $5,000 to Charity

If you are interested in any Charitable or Benevolent Institution anywhere in New England write the names of such organization on your sales slip and drop it in the Ballot Box, Second Floor, or mail to us. Each 10c of your purchase counts as one vote. Every charity receiving 2000 votes or more will receive a portion of the $5,000 cash.

Attend the Women's Handiwork Exposition

This week and see the greatest exhibition of Paper Flowers, Pyrography, Leather Work, Wire Work and Wood Work ever held in Boston. Every specimen shown is the work of Boston people. Entries close Friday, five cash prizes and 300 blue ribbons will be awarded.

NOTICE Tomorrow, Friday, we will receive exhibits for Exhibition No. 1, which will be open Saturday, the Children's Exhibition and will consist entirely of work done by children from 5 to 17 years of age.

In the exhibition any child over 5 years of age may enter any article of work done entirely by himself or herself, and which they have made, and the judges will consider the originality, correctness and merit of the work in awarding the prizes to be given to the child considering its age.

Free Delivery

Within a radius of 25 miles of Boston on all purchases of $5.00 or more.

SCHOOL FILMS FOR GROWNUPS

Moving pictures will play a prominent part in the more extended use of school buildings planned by Dr. Franklin B. Dyer, city superintendent. The films will be shown in the four new evening centres established by the School Board with the fund set aside for the purpose. In connection with lectures it is intended to give for men and women.

The experiment, in which Dr. Dyer is much interested, will be tried in the high schools of East Boston, South Boston, Charlestown and Roxbury. Besides the lectures and classes in sewing, singing, dancing, debating and other things, orchestras, bands, glee clubs, dramatic clubs and similar organizations will be started. The lectures for the men will be by experts on economics and government from the colleges. It is hoped to give the voters the benefit of the best opinions obtainable on the questions of the day. These lectures will be on Friday evenings.

On Wednesday afternoons there are to be talks for the women on home economics, proper care of children, pure food and other subjects connected with the household. R. E. Hawley, assistant director of evening and continuation schools, will be in charge of the new work.

VALUABLE PAINTING OF MADONNA STOLEN

ROME, Oct. 2.—The great painting of the Madonna, for which J. Pierpont Morgan, it was reported, had recently offered $20,000, has been mysteriously stolen from St. John's Church, in Piacenza, the capital of the province of the same name.

SCHOOLMATES ARE MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sherburne of Lexington are on their honeymoon trip to the White Mountains today, following a bridal which crowned a romance dating back to school days.

Mrs. Sherburne was Miss Beulah Locke, daughter of Irving Locke of East Lexington. Mr. Sherburne is the son of Warren R. Sherburne of Lexington and a graduate of Harvard, class of 1911.

The marriage took place at the home of Mrs. S. B. Van Ness, East Lexington. The Rev. Mr. Creighton of the Unitarian Church officiated.

The bride wore white satin and a tulle veil and carried Ward roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Sally Sherburne, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor in white embroidered chiffon.

Thomas R. Sherburne, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Harold Blake, Richard Sherburne and Calvin Childs.

BELIEVE MARCONI'S EYE WILL BE SAVED

ROME, Oct. 3.—The last bulletin in regard to the condition of William Marconi is as follows:

The swelling in the external part is much diminished and the hemorrhage of the eye itself is gradually being absorbed rendering possible investigation from which favorable deductions have been drawn regarding the state of the interior part of the injured eye. The patient's general condition remains excellent.

COMMERCE MEN ARE GUESTS OF DETROIT

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 3.—Four hundred and ten members of the International Chamber of Commerce, who recently concluded a convention in Boston, are in Detroit for a two days' visit. During their stay here they will inspect the city's industries and will be tendered a banquet by the Detroit Chamber of Commerce. They leave for Chicago tomorrow night.

MRS. J. STEWART BARNEY KILLS MOOSE

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Barney have returned from a two weeks' hunt in the Canadian woods, during which Mrs. Barney shot a large moose, which will be shipped to their New York residence.

BOSTOCK, "ANIMAL KING," IS STRICKEN

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Frank Bostock, the "Animal King," suffered an attack of nervous prostration today, and is in a serious condition. Mr. Bostock, who formerly conducted an animal show in New York, is the most famous animal trainer in the world.

GLOUCESTER ANXIOUS FOR DECISION UPON U. S. FISHERY CLAIMS

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 3.—Gloucester folk are especially interested in the sitting of the international tribunal to settle claims between Great Britain and the United States. The sitting will open next April in Washington, it is now announced.

The United States sets up a great many claims against Great Britain. There are numerous ones against Newfoundland, most of them for repayment of various impositions upon United States fishing vessels, hailing from Gloucester, paid under protest, and in consequence of the decision of The Hague tribunal upon the Atlantic fisheries question.

Among the United States claims against Canada are eight based upon alleged illegal capture and forfeiture of American vessels.

THREE DEAD IN FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Three men were burned to death, another was fatally injured and four men, women and children were thrown into a panic by a fire early today in the five-story tenement at No. 107 East Fourth street.

WIDOW DENIES HOOD DRANK

Mrs. L. C. Hood, widow of the Roxbury photograph canvasser of No. 29 Minden street, whose mysterious death following his arrest Monday, September 23, is under investigation, today denied that her husband drank.

Medical Examiner Leary has ordered an inquest, since the dead man's son, Ralph C. Hood, charges his death was due to violence. Mrs. Hood said:

My husband was not quarrelsome, and he didn't drink.

On the night he was arrested he had gone on an errand for the house. The supper was on the table waiting for him. An hour or so passed and he had not returned.

I sent a boy to the station, but they refused to let him see his father. A few hours later I was informed by a policeman that he had been removed to the hospital, where they would perform an operation on him.

Friday night a police officer called at the home and informed us of his death.

NEW HAVEN BUYS HOTELS IN MAINE

BAR HARBOR, Oct. 3.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has bought the Hardy's Point property, consisting of several cottages, the Newport Hotel and cottages, and the Rockaway Hotel, with a large amount of shore frontage. The property, worth $250,000 to $500,000, is to be developed as a Summer resort.

TEACHER WHO WAS TARRED MARRIED

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 3.—Homer J. Hellferich has married Miss Mary Chamberlain, the school teacher, who last Fall was tarred and feathered at Shady Bend. Half a dozen prominent Lincoln County men were prosecuted.

Girl, Thirteen, Gives 36 Inches of Skin to Save Baby Brother

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Alice Schulhof, thirteen years old, didn't like to hear her mother cry. She knew "mamma's crying because Wilfred got burned," for her little brother lay in Bellevue Hospital near death.

She heard a doctor say skin grafting might save the baby, if some child could be found willing to sacrifice its skin.

So little Alice slipped away from home, went to the hospital and told the doctors they could "have all her skin" if it would make the little brother well.

They took thirty-six square inches inches of skin from the girl's back, sides and arms, and grafted it upon the wee brother's legs. The children are in adjoining cots in the hospital, and will both recover.

Two Splendid Suggestions for the Skin and Hair

Simple little home remedies usually do more to conserve the complexion than expensive preparations and especially is this true of a spurmax lotion for the face, neck, arms and hands. This is prepared by putting 4 ounces spurmax into ¼ pint witch hazel or hot water and adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. The spurmax lotion is invisible when on and imparts a delicate and velvety smoothness to the skin. Its use banishes all complexion upsets and protects the skin from chap and roughness.

Shampooing with canthrox cleans the hair and scalp of all dust, dandruff and excess oil, and energizes it that dull, faded, straggly hair takes on a bright lustre, rich, even color and silken fluff. You can easily prepare your own shampoo by dissolving a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water. Occasional shampoos with canthrox keep the scalp healthy and encourage a bountiful growth of beautiful hair.

FEEL FINE! LIVER RIGHT, STOMACH SWEET, HEADACHE GONE—"CASCARETS"

Cascarets make you feel bully; they immediately cleanse and sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a ten-cent box from any druggist will keep your Stomach regulated, Head clear and Liver and Bowels in a splendid condition for months. Don't forget the children.

10 Cents. Never gripe or sicken.

Tonight All Roads Lead TO THE Cambridge Carnival

$100 Reward for the Capture of Miss Ad Taker

Two Prizes of $50 Each

The Boston AMERICAN Will Pay the Reward in Cambridge Armory Tonight and Saturday Night

Miss Ad Taker of the BOSTON AMERICAN will be in the Cambridge Armory tonight and Saturday between the hours of 7 and 10 P. M. $50 will be paid on each occasion to the captor of Miss Ad Taker.

MISS AD TAKER will attend the Cambridge Industrial Carnival and Manufacturers' Exhibit. The exhibit is given in the Armory building, Massachusetts avenue, near Harvard bridge. Miss Ad Taker will be in the Armory building between 7 and 10 P. M. this evening and on the evening of October 5. For her capture on each evening $50 will be paid.

The person who identifies Miss Ad Taker of the Boston AMERICAN must have in his or her hand, in plain sight, a copy of this ad, or of the full Boston AMERICAN of the date of the day of capture, and shall say to her while she is in the Armory building: "You are Miss Ad Taker of the Boston AMERICAN." The first man, woman or child who identifies her, as directed, will receive a Boston AMERICAN order for $50 in gold.

HOW YOU WILL KNOW HER

Miss Ad Taker weighs 100 pounds, has dark hair and dark eyes, and SHE WILL WEAR A GOLD BRACELET. She cannot be captured unless this bracelet is worn and can be plainly seen. This provision is necessary because of the limited capacity of the Armory. Remember, she will not answer or award the prize unless the bracelet can be plainly seen. Go tomorrow night to the exhibition at the Cambridge Armory and win the first $50.

"Be Apples Bribes?" Throbbing Query in Granite State Fight

ROCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 3.—Here is a cross section of conversation, which will be overheard during the coming stumping tour of Samuel D. Felker, Democratic candidate for Governor of New Hampshire.

"Aint them bribes?"

"Sure they be."

"No, they haint."

And right there is the issue of the coming campaign, on which the courts may be asked to give a decision.

"Be apples bribery?"

Candidate Felker has a fine apple farm. Now he plans to take along on his tour several barrels of these fine apples to hand out at every stop. Felker is quite a farmer, with ten acres in potatoes, ten acres in corn, 150 tons of hay and sixty head of cattle.

DETROYER MAKES NEW SPEED RECORD

NEWPORT, Oct. 3.—The new torpedo boat destroyer Jouett has made a new speed record, going 32.8 knots an hour for two consecutive hours.

BREAKS A COLD IN A FEW HOURS

First dose of Pape's Cold Compound relieves all grippe misery—no Quinine

After the very first dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" you distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly ends the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—it contains no quinine—be sure you get what you ask for—accept no substitute—belongs in every home. Tastes nice—acts gently.

DICK M'GRANN SAUSAGE-MAKER

LANCASTER, Oct. 3.—Richard P. McGrann, who a few years ago was bobbing with aristocracy and trading horses with kings, while Broadway told glittering stories of the "speedthrift," has been reduced to sausages. The man who married Miss Amy Penn, descendant of the original William, and started about a decade ago to live the life of a millionaire, in conducting a plant in this city where they turn out scrapple and sausages. Last week all his horses and fancy live stock were sold to satisfy creditors.

According to his friends, and Dick McGrann has hosts of them because he played his game fairly and squarely, his case is simply that of a man who tried to live too high and too fast on insufficient capital. It is said that his bride believed he was a millionaire. But he had only inherited only a comparatively small fortune from his father, Bernard G. McGrann. Nevertheless, a few weeks after his marriage he set out to live the life of a millionaire on $15,000 a year.

He hit on the aristocratic fad of breeding hackney stallions and carrying horse and became an exhibitor in New York, London and Paris. He and his beautiful wife sailed on the surface of the highest society.

But it took a lot of money, and even though the King of England's colors had to bow to the prowess of McGrann's horse show colors, even though the King of Italy engaged his horses to breed chargers for the world-famed Italian cavalry, McGrann couldn't keep up the pace.

At first he borrowed from his brother, Frank, president of the Conestoga National Bank, and director in several trust companies.

A son had been born, and a provision in the will of the boy's grandfather gave the lad a farm near Lancaster.

When the crash came, and the creditors took steps to protect their interests, "the speedthrift" retired to his son's farm and sausages.

BACKS DOWN ON MALDEN CHARGES

E. W. Johnson, the divinity student who made charges that the municipal ordinances were laxly enforced in Malden, has taken them all back, following a conference with Judge Bruce of the district court and a number of city officials.

He had declared that kitchen bar-rooms and objectionable Chinese restaurants flourished unhampered by the authorities, and that during the carnival last week roulette wheels and bunco games were permitted on the Midway.

Mayor Farrell and Judge Bruce wrote Mr. Johnson asking for evidence, particularly as to kitchen bar-rooms. Mr. Johnson had a conference with the judge and told him that the charges had been made on the basis of statements by friends, and that he had no direct evidence.

MOSLEM PRIESTS URGE TURKS TO HOLY WAR

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3.—Throughout Turkey, priests of the Moslem faith are preaching a Holy War against all Christendom. Fanatics are demanding that the government declare war not only against the Balkan States but against all Europe.

Sheik Ul Islam, head of the Mohammedan priesthood, is in daily consultation with the Turkish ministry.

The Turks are distributing inflammatory circulars throughout European Turkey urging all Turks who are old enough to bear arms to rise up against the Christians. Practically all the Christians throughout the Balkans are members of the Greek Catholic Church.

There are fears of wholesale massacres of Christians.

Commandeer Greek Steamer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Just as the Greek steamship Macedonia was about to sail for Piraeus, the port of Athens, today, she was commandeered by the Greek consul general at this port and the 2,000 passengers had to debark.

The Macedonia later sailed to Philadelphia where she will be loaded with ammunition for the Greek army and navy and then will return here and sail for Greece with the Greek army reservists now in the United States.

Report Further Conflicts.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Further reports of hostilities in the Balkans reached London today, but came without confirmation as a strict censorship has been established by Turkey and the other governments involved. One of these reports stated that sixty armed Servians had crossed into European Turkey, but were chased back to their own soil by a Turkish battalion after a sharp fight. The Turks surrounded the Servians, pursued them to the border and then retreated.

All now depends upon Turkey's answer within three days to the joint ultimatum of the Balkan States demanding autonomy for Macedonia, Albania, Old Servia and Crete and other reforms in European Turkey. Even should Turkey reply in the negative or refuse to reply at all to this or a supplemental ultimatum to follow later on, formal declaration of war is not expected before the end of next week.

Young Turks Want War.

SALONIKA, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the Young Turk Committee of Union and Progress here today a resolution demanding that the Turkish government declare war at once upon Greece, Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro was adopted.

Powers in Conference.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—A conference of representatives of the Powers on the Balkan situation was held at the foreign office today. Poincare, French foreign minister, presided. It was attended by the diplomatic envoys of England, Germany, Austria, Russia, Bulgaria, Greece, Servia and Montenegro.

The conference is reported to have dealt principally with the financial phase of the situation by which the Powers, with the possible exception of Austria, will act independently in refusing war loans.

It was agreed that in the event of war the partition of European Turkey would not be allowed.

Servia Seizes Turkish Munitions.

BELGRADE, Oct. 3.—The Servian government today seized several carloads of Turkish war munitions and three Turkish aeroplanes in retaliation for Turkey's detention of Servian munitions on their way through Turkish territory.

Turk Emissaries at Belgrade.

VIENNA, Oct. 3.—A dispatch received this afternoon from Belgrade, Servia, states that six emissaries of the Turkish government arrived there today on a secret mission and at once went into secret conference with Premier Pasitch of Servia.

REDMOND OFF FOR MONTREAL TODAY

William H. K. Redmond left Pittsfield today for Montreal, where he will speak tomorrow night. He will speak in Chicago on Sunday night and in Washington on Tuesday night. Before leaving Boston, Mr. Redmond visited the graves of Patrick A. Collins and John Boyle O'Reilly and placed a wreath on each.

DEATHS

HENRY A. TREUTHARDT of Boston and Medford, prominent in Massachusetts Militia circles, is dead at Newcastle, Me. He was connected with the postoffice department for several years.

FRANCIS C. HALL, Dartmouth, '02, only son of Alfred S. Hall of Winchester, is dead at Marrs Camp, Me. He was a veteran of the Spanish War.

JEREMIAH WALL, chairman of the general board of the Railroad Conductors, is dead following an operation. He was one of the best-known railroad conductors in the United States.

FRANCES ALLITSEN, the composer, is dead at her residence in Bayswater, England.

SOLD OUT TO RAYMOND

We think we have the greatest stock of men's, women's, boys' and children's BOOTS and SHOES in New England. The main floor shoe department is packed with men's boots and shoes, the balcony with women's and children's BOOTS and SHOES, and we are compelled to use the entire store, 366 Washington Street, for men's, women's and children's boots and shoes. Three complete retail shoe stores, which we agree to give the people at an average of one-third and many cases half less than all regular prices. Boots and shoes of almost every character, including the finest goods possible to be had at any price.

Yours truly, RAYMOND

"The Talker" Play Teaches Moral Shows How Tongue Can Wreak Havoc

COMEDY SCENE FROM "THE TALKER," NEW PLAY HERE.

Tully Marshall as Harry Lenox, Wilson Day as Mr. Felix and Vida Croley Bibley as Jessie Smith.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

You might reasonably expect a woman to have the last word, and it was so for two acts in "The Talker" at the Hollis last evening. After that Tully Marshall, who is best known to dramatic fame as an interpreter of weird characters, broke into the conversation and lingered to the end. "The Talker" is doubtless Miss Marion Fairfax's idea of how a misguided woman may spread moral destruction with an active tongue and a false notion of life from the feminine standpoint. At any rate, that is what happened.

After all, a woman is naturally feminine and gentle, and when the worst had been done and a young girl was sent on a crooked path by the altogether too modern preachings of a restless woman, the horror of it all came home with a splash that nearly wrecked the family. If Kate Lenox had believed all that she said, or had lacked the moral balance to take care of herself, she would have gone into history as one of the most dreadful women of the season's drama. But Kate was evidently talking against time when she advocated little journeys away from the fireside as a woman's positive privilege.

It was plain that Harry Lenox was not progressing fast enough to suit his wife, and she didn't try to hide her feelings in the matter. The strife might have settled down to a domestic struggle between Harry and Kate, if Harry's young sister, Ruth, had not listened with eager ears to the ravings of the older woman. It was a free and independent life that Kate cried for, and Ruth accepted the plan as a good one, and quietly slipped away to Chicago with a married man.

You can guess the result. There was some loud talking in the Lenox family, and Kate's last word, which had served to keep a stern check on Harry for nearly two acts was lost in the free flow of language that sprung from the deep conviction of a husband who knew that his wife had ruined his sister.

It was here that Mr. Marshall stepped into the middle of the stage and delivered a stirring sermon on right living and proper thinking. Kate, who was admirably played by Miss Eva McDonald, immediately repented, for the good of the play, and while she and Harry lived together for appearance's sake, there was nothing between them but sour glances. The "talker" had done her worst, and there was nothing left for her but atone for her terrible mistake by lifting fallen and doubtful young women into a cleaner life.

If Harry hadn't been as blind as a bat he would have seen that his wife wasn't such a bad sort after all —just a trifle misguided. With the return of the broken-hearted and wretched Ruth things were left clear for an understanding—and, of course, a happy reunion.

Between Mr. Marshall and Miss McDonald the problem of a woman's right to ignore conventions was pretty thoroughly threshed out. The author gave the woman the best of the argument so long as it remained a matter of table talk, but when the disastrous results were registered she proved unfaithful to her sex. Miss McDonald gave a clear impression of the strong minded, determined woman, and she melted into repentance most effectively. While the character was false from the start, Miss McDonald played it with discretion.

Mr. Marshall was almost too matter of fact to be real, but he managed to hold himself in line through the performance. The Ruth of Mary Mallen was as close to the misguided girl of old-fashioned melodrama as anything could be in a drama of today, and Wilson Day was appreciably at home in the amusing role of a thoroughly tamed and subdued husband.

There is nothing particularly complimentary to the modern woman in "The Talker." As a matter of fact, the performance has a strong tendency to empty conversation, in which, for once, a woman's last word does not settle an argument.

HEAVY SALE OF OPERA SEATS

The remarkable opera program announced for the coming season by Director Henry Russell, has resulted in a record-breaking sale of subscription seats. The management has announced that the subscription sales will be closed Saturday, November 2.

After that date there will be no opportunity to take advantage of the discounts offered for opera seats for the season.

The discounts offered are extremely liberal. The $2, $1.50 and $1 seats are all offered at fifty cents off, if bought for the season. Thus the $2 seats sell at the rate of $1.50 a performance, the $1.50 seats at $1 a performance and the $1 seats at fifty cents a performance. On the latter seats this amounts to a fifty per cent. discount.

In spite of the heavy sale up to date, good seats still remain in all sections of the house, and purchasers during the next two weeks will find little difficulty in making a selection. After that time, however, it is expected that the most choice places will be taken.

Director Russell predicts that this will be the Opera House's most successful season. With the increased and improved orchestra and a new list of stars, and with additions to the repertoire, the performances will be of a high class, from "Tales of Hoffman" on the first night, to the end of the season.

THREE AMERICANS HELD CAPTIVE BY REBELS RESCUED

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 3.—Three American civil engineers who were captured by bandits in the southern part of the State of Mexico were rescued today by rurales, according to a dispatch from Amecameca. Amecameca is on the intercecanic railway, thirty-five miles southeast of this city. The Americans were being held for ransom and their lives were in grave peril.

GENEE COMING TO OPERA HOUSE SOON IN NOVEL BALLETS

Adeline Genee and her ballet are announced for one appearance at the Boston Opera House, on the afternoon of Saturday, November 16. Mlle. Genee will be remembered as the silent but altogether alluring stellar figurants, first in "The Soul Kiss" and later in "The Silver Star" and "The Bachelor Belles."

She has not been seen on the American stage since her appearance in the last named piece, having been winning new triumphs in London and on the Continent. Genee is a Dane by birth, a fact which in her earlier days gained her the patronage and later the friendship of the Queen Mother Alexandria.

Now she will be seen as an environment appropriate to her charm and grace, for she brings a complete ballet and will be seen in revivals of her most famous creations, as well as in several novelties.

HETTY GREEN SELLS CHICAGO HOLDINGS

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Hetty Green is rapidly disposing of her Chicago property by sales or long-termed lease. Two years ago her holdings here were estimated to be worth $5,000,000. Today she has left only a few scattering lots worth about $500,000. When Mrs. Green turned the active management of her affairs over to her son, E. H. R. Green, it was decided to dispose of her Chicago real estate to be relieved of the details of managing it. She got it all by foreclosure.

HINT AT SICKLES RECONCILIATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—General Daniel E. Sickles and his wife have, if not become reconciled after twenty-seven years, at least decided to cease the recriminations and counter recriminations which have recently passed between them, according to a friend of Mrs. Sickles, at the Hotel LaFayette.

"Stanton Sickles," he said, "has decided for the present not to give out any more letters written by his father to a prominent New York society woman and which came into the son's possession some years ago. The general, in the same spirit, realizing that he made a technical blunder in making public what he did, has declined to make further public statements."

MARY L. WHITNEY, SOCIETY GIRL WHO IS SOCIAL WORKER

MISS MARY WHITNEY

MISS WHITNEY BRIDE SATURDAY

Interest in society weddings generally does not stretch from the Back Bay to the North End, but it does in the case of Miss Mary L. Whitney, who is to be married on Saturday afternoon (October 5) to Edward Lawrence. Miss Whitney has been conspicuous in settlement work, and has friends not only in the fashionable set of Brookline, where she lives, but among the less well-to-do. She is the only daughter of Mrs. C. L. B. Whitney of Gardner road, Brookline. Mr. Lawrence is the only son of Mrs. Edward Lawrence of Regent Circle, formerly of Wellesley Hills.

The wedding will take place at the Harvard Congregational Church, Harvard street, Brookline. The Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon, pastor, will perform the ceremony. Miss Whitney will have as her maid of honor Miss Mary B. Lawrence, sister of the bridegroom, and the bridesmaids are to be Miss Lyra B. Nickerson of Providence, Miss Paula Finn, formerly of Brookline; Miss Madeline T. Brewer of Milton, dances of the bride's brother Ryan; the Misses Marjorie and Barbara Horton, cousins of the bride, and Miss Mary F. Reed of Belmont. The best man will be Roger D. Smith of Dedham.

The ushers are to be Henry L. Hall of Hingham, Frank Peach of Swampscott, Charles B. and Ryan Whitney, brothers of the bride; John Macomber of South Framingham, Frederick A. Turner, Jr., of Hingham, and Edward L. Kent, cousin of the groom, of Chestnut Hill.

The couple will live at No. 34 Kilsyth road, Brookline.

American Race Now In the Melting Pot Says Lyman Abbott

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Dr. Lyman Abbott, the noted author and editor, at his country home at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, discussed for the readers of the AMERICAN the question of practical eugenics in its relation to raising the standard of the American families.

It was the family of which Dr. Abbott is an illustrious example which was designated before the Washington conference of the American federation of sex-hygiene as embracing the most sterling American qualities.

"At present I am inclined to think that Israel Zangwill is right," commented the venerable teacher and scholar, as he turned his gaze upon the Autumnal tinted slopes of Storm King and topped with his long, slender fingers upon the chair arm. His sparkling eyes and almost youthful smile successfully concealed traces of his seventy-seven years.

"Yes, our people are in the melting pot," he continued. "Our nation, our national character is being made. From the contributions of the Italian, German, Anglo-Saxon and Scandinavian races we are making a new stock.

"The quality? Well, some one will be better able to tell the world about that some 100 years hence than now."

A SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" Regulates Your Stomach and Ends Indigestion in Five Minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember, the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

PRINTING SHOW AT ART MUSEUM

At the Boston Museum of Fine Arts today was opened an exhibition of German wood cuts and pages from illustrated books, of interest to all those to whom fine printing appeals. It is in the two print galleries on the first floor and will be continued until about December 1.

Curator Emil H. Richter has arranged an exhibition which shows plainly the influences alive in the modern printing world, passing down from DeVinne, Updyke, Rogers and the other exponents of light-faced Roman type with harmonious initials. The fifteenth and sixteenth century Italian wood cuts and type pages look almost as if they might have been done last week in some up-to-date printing shop. An anonymous fifteenth century edition of Dante's Inferno has yielded thirty-two pages which are decidedly handsome.

The PEOPLES CREDIT COMPANY'S now famous ORDER CHECK is good for anything carried by the department stores, and you have the combined stock of fifty-two department and specialty stores from which to select. Every person, man or woman, using our ORDER CHECK at any store in Boston will receive every consideration accorded cash customers. OUR CHECK is accepted as cash—no questions, no delay, goods delivered at once—no waiting; THE GREATEST CREDIT ARRANGEMENT IN THE WORLD.

Remember, it is no longer necessary to go to the old style credit house, with its limited stock of last year's goods—and pay exorbitant prices. Have the labels of the best cash stores on your clothing, just the same as your neighbor who pays cash. Before making any purchases on credit do yourself the justice to investigate our superior system.

AGREEMENT RENEWED WITH LEADING MANUFACTURERS OF MEN'S CLOTHING

It is the only agreement of its kind in America. We sell the Standard Brands of men's clothing on credit at cash prices—makes that you see advertised in the newspapers and magazines nationally and locally. We are BOUND BY AGREEMENT with the manufacturers not to charge one cent more for these brands than is charged by the cash stores. You get the labels of the best houses on your clothing when you buy of us.

THE RICHARD SYSTEM CLOTHES of New York City, the highest class ready for service garments in America; R. B. FASHION CLOTHES of Rochester, N. Y., the "snappiest" clothes in America for the clever dresser; STROUSE & BROS. "HIGH ART" CLOTHES of Baltimore, Md., clothes of quality suitable for the conservative dresser; GRIFFON CLOTHES of Baltimore, "Faddy" clothes for young men; LINCOLN BRAND of Boston, the very best medium priced clothes made; FRANKEL SYSTEM CLOTHES of New York City, including the Famous Frankel $15.00 Suit, the best suit made for this price in America; CHARACTER CLOTHES of New York City, highest grade strictly union made garment; NATIONAL STUDENT CLOTHES of New York City, style quality and make are all combined in this brand, especially adapted for the youth; ADLER'S CLOTHES OF MILWAUKEE, the famous "Collegian" brand; ALCO SYSTEM CLOTHES of Philadelphia, hand tailored apparel for gentlemen of discrimination.

PRIVATE OFFICES FOR USE OF CUSTOMERS—This year we have added several more private offices for our customers, where business may be transacted without the objectionable publicity of the old style methods of old style concerns.

Coal in Winter - Gas in Summer

Crawford Ranges

You need a coal range in Winter for kitchen warmth and for continuous hot water supply, but in Summer when you want a cool kitchen and less hot water a Gas range is the thing. You get both in the Crawford Combination Range and you get the best of each.

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe; explosions are impossible. No dangerous pilot light; the oven door has to open before gas can be lighted and the Damper opens automatically with the oven door. In the End Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling, which save the cook much stooping.

No coal range equals the Crawford with its money and labor saving improvements;—Single Damper (patented)—Scientific Oven heating flues—Ash Hod (patented), etc.

Crawford Ranges are Sold by Progressive Dealers.

SHOWS T. R. AS PURE FOOD FOE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 3.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the man whose name is identified with the nation's fight for pure food, took the stump here for the Democratic party. He declared he will vote for Wilson and Marshall, and in strong terms denounced the stand of Theodore Roosevelt as President upon the pure food question.

"Read the high sounding moralities of the Progressive platform," said the doctor, "and compare them with the actual performances of its master builder. They don't seem consistent. I cannot conceive of any more wicked and law-breaking performance.

"A benedict law—passed in good faith by Congress—was mercilessly cut to pieces, and the corpse was turned over to the Secretary of Agriculture for dissection. The Secretary of Agriculture, inspired by his trusties in crime, Solicitor McCabe and Associate Dunlap, attacked the carcass with the avidity of fasting buzzards, and soon only the whitening bones of the pure food law remained as mute witnesses of its existence.

McCabe's Power Grows.

Dr. Wiley spoke of difficulties he had encountered in enforcing the law, of the appointment of Associate Chemist Dunlap and "the growth of Solicitor McCabe's power." Finally, he said, to keep out of the courts, the opponents of the law appealed to Secretary Wilson and President Roosevelt.

"Shortly thereafter," he continued, "I was asked by the Secretary of Agriculture to go with him to the President's office. Solicitor McCabe and Associate Chemist Dunlap were also of the party. There was met Mr. Curtis of Rochester, N. Y., Mr. Grovenor, representing Williams brothers of Detroit, and James S. Sherman, at that time a member of the House of Representatives, appearing in the interest of Sherman brothers of Oneida, N. Y.

"They had spent the previous evening with the President showing him how Wiley was ruining Republican business. This particular Republican business consisted of putting benzoate of soda and saccharin into human foods. The President stated the object of the meeting and summarized the conversation these business men had held with him the night before.

Soda Injurious.

"He then turned to the Secretary of Agriculture and said, 'Mr. Wilson, do you think the addition of benzoate of soda in foods is injurious?' I answered, 'I do not think, I know; I have tried it on healthy young men and it made them ill.'

"The same question was asked of Solicitor McCabe and Associate Dunlap. They both answered in the affirmative.

Then, turning to the Republican representatives of business and striking the table a ringing blow with his fist, the President said: 'Gentlemen, if this drug is injurious you shall not put it in foods.'

"Had matters stopped there there would have been no Remsen Board. But at this juncture Mr. Sherman interposed: 'But, Mr. President, how about the saccharin?' My firm saved $4,000 last year by using saccharin instead of sugar.'

"I unfortunately 'butted in' at this juncture and said, 'Yes, Mr. President and everyone who eats those products is deceived, believing he is eating sugar, and moreover the health is threatened by this drug.'

Turning upon me in sudden anger and fierce visage, the President said: "Anybody who says saccharin is injurious is a liar. Dr. Rixey gives it to me every day." Having thus had my mental classification officially defined, I withdrew.

Establish Remsen Board.

"Two days thereafter the Remsen Board was gazetted. It was received with a shout of acclaim from the throat of every adulterator and misbrander of foods in the land. Instead of having to go to the courts to defend their nefarious practices, they were now the wards of the Great Father at Washington, and from that time to this have continued their activities in poisoning and defrauding the people under his protecting wing."

ALL READY TO SIGN ITALIAN PEACE PACT

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Oct. 3.—The Turkish and Italian representatives reached an agreement today on the main terms of a peace treaty. It is momentarily expected it will be signed.

'KEEP BRIDLES ON, YOU JACKS,'' T. R. TOLD BIG DOCTORS, DR. WILEY ASSERTS

By the acquiescence of the the Secretary of Agriculture, and by direction of the President of the U...l States, two great laws, each intended to protect the people, were set aside to place in supreme power two of the most malicious men that ever disgraced the public service.

When the Legislative committee of the American Medical Association went to the White House to ask that this action be rescinded, President Roosevelt became violently angry and, livid with rage, said, "You jacks, keep your bridles on."—Dr. Harvey. W. Wiley.

PREDICT GREAT SULZER VICTORY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Progressive Democrats were jubilant today over the nomination of Congressman William Sulzer for Governor, and predicted a sweeping victory over the Republican and Progressive tickets headed by Job H. Hedges and Oscar S. Straus, respectively.

They declared the nomination of Sulzer for Governor and Martin H. Glynn for Lieutenant-Governor showed the convention to be "unbossed." After nominating Sulzer and Glynn, the State convention adjourned at 1:29 a. m. to reconvene at 10 a. m. to complete the ticket. It was understood that all the present holders of the lesser offices would be renominated.

Sulzer was chosen on the fourth ballot at 1:20 a. m. by practically a unanimous vote. He was out after Governor John A. Dix had had his name withdrawn.

Congressman Sulzer said today:

"Well, it was a long wait, but it was worth waiting for. I am deeply sensible of the honor conferred on me by the Democracy of New York. I thank the delegates, and through them all my friends and the Democrats of my State. I shall carry the standard, ever conscious that it is not for mortal to command success, but I shall strive to deserve it. I am full of gratitude."

That the delegates were not hoss-ruled in making the nomination of Sulzer and Glynn was the statement made by Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall.

Mr. Murphy said: "I had a candidate when I came here. My candidate was John A. Dix. I was of the opinion that Governor Dix on his record should have been renominated. The delegates to this convention thought differently. Every delegate registered his choice. Outside of my opinion that Governor Dix was entitled to renomination, I have not advocated or deprecated the candidacy of any man whose name was presented to the convention, or of any man whose name was presented to me and did not reach the convention."

With the nomination for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor out of the way, the Democratic State convention settled down to rapid work at its final session today.

Mitchell May of Kings County was unanimously nominated for Secretary of State to succeed Edward Lasansky, the present incumbent.

State Comptroller William Sohmer was unanimously renominated.

John J. Kennedy of Erie was unanimously renominated for State Treasurer.

Thomas Carmody of Yates was unanimously renominated for Attorney-General.

TITLED AUSTRIAN KILLS WOMAN; ENDS OWN LIFE FOR LOVE

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—Baron von Reden, Austrian Minister to Abyssinia, shot and killed Gladys Pierce, a dressmaker with whom he was in love, then killed himself, at Lemberg today, according to a telegram received from there. The tragedy grew out of objection of Baron von Reden's family to his proposed marriage to the woman, who was considered beneath his station.

The Baron was thirty-seven years old and the woman thirteen years his junior.

'HUNGER STRIKE' WINS MISS EVANS FREEDOM

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—Gladys Evans, the militant suffragette, who was sentenced to five years' penal servitude on August 7 for trying to burn down the Theatre Royal here, has been released because of illness, which she brought upon herself by her refusal to eat the prison fare. The prison physicians declared she would die unless she dropped her "hunger strike."

LOWELL'S MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN, WHO KILLED SELF

LOWELL, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Mabel Fogg Iatros, wife of Michael Iatros, a former Greek consul here, was found dead today in the office of Dr. Otis Allen, Shattuck and Merrimac streets. The room was filled with gas and death was due to gas poisoning.

She left two notes, in each of which she said she committed suicide because of ill-health. She wrote she went to Boston last Sunday and saw a specialist, who told her she had consumption.

Mrs. Iatros was thirty. She was called the handsomest woman in the city. She had been estranged from her husband more than a year. She lived in a room at the French House, in the residential part of the city.

When nineteen, Mrs. Iatros figured in a romantic wedding. She eloped with a college student and was married to him secretly. The news of the wedding became known publicly two years later when she applied for a divorce. She represented to the court that the marriage was a "mere escapade." The divorce was granted.

Ten years ago she was married to Michael Iatros, then Greek consul and court interpreter here, a man of education and refinement. They lived happily together until their separation, the cause of which never was learned.

In 1907 Iatros was an immigration interpreter in Boston. He was arrested on an indictment warrant that year charging him with perjury in effect the landing of Petros Pelikon, a boy of seventeen, in 1905, and acquitted.

Mrs. Iatros was the principal witness. She defended her husband. Her testimony resulted in his acquittal.

BREAD & BUTTER 10 CENTS EXTRA!

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Members of the Hotel Association of New York, who have just jumped the cost of living to their guests and patrons of the restaurants from 33 to 40 per cent. by the installation on their menus of the "per person" plan from Paris, with the additional "Convert" charges of 10 cents "pp" for bread and butter, today defended their action by contrasting their charges with European hotels.

They bitterly resented suggestion that the new plan is a cleverly worked out scheme calculated to put the cost of the recent waiters' strike upon the public, and further serve to insure the hotels and restaurants from possible losses through future waiters' strikes—a walkout of the serving craft being scheduled to take place election night.

"Why they charge you for breathing over on the other side," said T. M. Hilliard, of the Vanderbilt Hotel.

"Besides, this per person plan is only to simplify our kitchens. One ought to travel and find out how reasonable prices are in this city.

"We are simply falling in line with Paris, London and Berlin," said Manager Oscar of the Waldorf, who admitted he personally had not been across the Atlantic for eighteen years. "I do know that we have been giving away 1,500 pounds of butter, 20,000 rolls and 500 loaves of bread every day. It had to stop."

The Boston hotels do not charge for bread and butter and state that they are not going to follow the lead of New York hotels in making this additional charge.

VICTIM HELPS SECURE PARDON FOR ASSAILANT

Celestino Ardolino, who has served over two years of an eight-year sentence at Charlestown State Prison for assault with intent to murder Pasquale Negretta, was pardoned by the Executive Council today, the pardon being recommended by Governor Foss, Fr. Murphy, Catholic chaplain at the prison, and even by Negretta, the victim of the assault. Ardolino was a guest in Negretta's home in the North End when the assault was committed. After ascertaining the facts the council deemed the sentence rather severe and voted a pardon.

VORENBERG REWARDS FIRE DEPARTMENT

In acknowledgement of the prompt work done by the firemen in extinguishing the recent fire at Vorenberg's big clothing store, Mr. S. Vorenberg today sent a check to the Firemen's Relief Association.

DEMOCRATS MAY ADOPT SUFFRAGE

"It is probable that an equal suffrage plank will be put in the Democratic State platform."

This statement was made today by a prominent member of the Democratic State Committee, who said that many of the younger and progressive Democrats have been conducting a quiet but energetic campaign to put the party on record as favoring the extension of the franchise to the weaker sex.

Among those who are known to be in favor of putting such a plank in the platform are Chairman Thomas F. Riley, chairman of the State Committee, and Michael O'Leary, secretary of the State Committee.

Some of the old line Democrats, however, are opposed to any fat-footed endorsement of "votes for women," but are willing to favor a plank calling for the submission of the question to the voters by means of a State-wide referendum. Such a plank was in the Democratic State platform last year and, in the event of the adherents of an outright endorsement of equal suffrage failing to win out, it will be all probability be adopted as a compromise measure this year.

The platform committee, of which Charles S. Hamlin is chairman, meets the morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and will settle this point definitely.

GIRL IS KILLED BY TRAIN FOR BOSTON

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 3.—Seventeen-year-old Owie Stelmakopel, a girl working in the United States Cotton Company's plant, was killed instantly on her way to work today at Central Falls by a Boston-bound train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. With a girl companion she was walking the track, and in trying to avoid one train stepped in front of another.

ROOSEVELT RESTING TODAY; TO TESTIFY ON FUND TOMORROW

OYSTER BAY, Oct. 3.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who arrived here yesterday after a 10,873-mile campaign tour through the West and South, the longest ever taken by a presidential nominee, spent today resting up at Sagamore Hill preparatory to testifying tomorrow at Washington before the Senate committee investigating campaign contributions.

Accompanied by his secretary, the Colonel will leave for Washington at midnight. Upon his return he will get ready for another campaign invasion of the Middle West, which will begin Monday.

An important conference of Progressive leaders was scheduled to be held here this afternoon. Those invited to take part were Frank A. Munsey, Senator Dixon, W. M. Hotchkiss and George W. Perkins.

EAST BOSTON'S PLEA FOR PARK

The City Council Finance Committee met under advisement the strong plea made by East Boston citizens for a water front playground in that district. The public hearing in City Hall was attended by Councilmen Attridge, Smith, Buckley, Ballantyne, Coulthurst, Kenny and McDonald. Councilman Kenny presided, and all the members showed their interest in the proposition by frequent questions.

A dozen or more representatives from Neddle Island testified to East Boston's needs, each speaker representing a large constituency.

James R. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recently formed Civic Association, acted as spokesman. He maintained that East Boston is paying tribute to the city in the shape of increased ferry and tunnel tolls to the amount of thousands a year. Councilman Ballantyne produced figures tending to show that much money has been expended for East Boston, but Mr. Fitzgerald made answer that many of the improvements of late in East Boston are those that have been sought for many years and that should have been granted long ago.

State East Boston's Case.

Other speakers were John J. Douglas, Michael J. Leary, John F. Walsh, the Rev. W. E. Jones, Michael Brophy, A. J. Bolger, M. C. Maguire, George C. Fitzpatrick, Dennis O'Neil, Michael Shannon and Isaac Mandelstam. The points they emphasized were:

The rapid growth in East Boston and consequent over-crowding in the lower part of Ward 2.

The large amount of juvenile crime recorded in the court as a result of boys' play in the streets.

The lack of recreation and bathing facilities available for the smaller children in the more crowded sections.

The advisability of obtaining a water front site now, before the dock property reaches a figure that is prohibitive.

The suffering which is experienced by the residents of East Boston during the hot summer months, with no outlet to the harbor along a shore line of three miles.

The fact that the citizens have respectably, by mass meeting and petition, pleaded and demanded this improvement.

Delegation Is Encouraged.

The fact that although a park such as is proposed would cost in the neighborhood of $200,000, it would come back to the city of Boston in dividends of better and stronger manhood and womanhood.

That East Boston, though apparently receiving many improvements at the present time, has been, upon the whole, neglected and over-burdened by extra tolls, both for riding on the ferry and through the tunnel.

Nearly every other part of Boston has water front parks.

The meeting adjourned with the East Boston delegation feeling that an important step had been taken in the direction of their long-hoped-for park.

$10,000 REWARD TO YOUNG MAN

And now consider the case of the young men of eighteen or so.

What are they going to do about this $10,000 in cash offered by the Sunday AMERICAN.

One of them ought to win it.

Young man—whether you live in Bangor or Brunswick, Bethlehem or Berlin, Burlington or Bellows Falls, Boston or Billerica—here is the college education you have longed for.

Here in this great ten thousand dollar prize of the Sunday AMERICAN'S voting contest is not only a college course, but your expenses through medical or law school, together with a snug sum to "tide you over" while you wait for a first wealthy patient or a first profitable client.

Two Ways to Get Votes.

Ten thousand dollars in cash goes, at the close of this campaign, to the boy or girl, man or woman, in New England, with the largest total vote.

And votes may be secured how?

In two days, either by coupons or subscriptions.

The coupon printed in the daily paper counts for five votes, the coupon in the Sunday paper for twenty-five votes.

A six-months' subscription to the Sunday AMERICAN is worth 1,500 votes; a twelve-months' subscription 3,500 votes; a thirty-six months' subscription 7,500 votes.

You can enroll in this great contest at any time by simply clipping the Enrollment Ballot printed elsewhere in the big advertisement and mailing it to the Contest Editor, P. O. Box 3,047, Boston, Mass. but in order to secure the advantage of the special offer you would better enroll today and begin taking subscriptions at once.

5,000 Votes Additional.

This special offer is of 5,000 votes to be given—in addition to the regular credits—for every ten subscriptions received before 10 o'clock on Saturday night of the present week.

Now don't complain that you have "no chance."

Your chance in this contest is as big and as great as anybody else's. The field is broad and clear. The race is yours.

Many a man who stands today among the world's greatest got where he is by sacrifice. Some worked their way through college. At least one of this year's candidates for Congress in Massachusetts worked a year in a factory that he might study a year at the university. Then he worked another year, and so on until his graduation. Abraham Lincoln did much of his early reading by the light of pine knots.

You can win $10,000 by plucky, persistent work in all your spare time. Everybody in New England is not only willing, but anxious to help the determined young man who plainly means to "get there."

Five District $1,000 Prizes.

Bear in mind that in addition to the first great prize of $10,000 there are five different prizes of $1,000 each, besides 1468 other prizes.

If you can conveniently do so, drop in on the Contest Editor at his office in Winthrop square, Boston, around the corner of Devonshire street from the AMERICAN building at 60-62 Summer street. If this is impossible, get in touch with the Contest Manager by mail. Having had considerable experience in other contests of this kind, he is a mine of valuable suggestions. His time and his experience are at your command. He will be glad to help you in every way possible. But, remember—everybody—that the special 5,000-vote offer expires at 10 o'clock on Saturday night.

HARRISON AVENUE RUNAWAY; 1 KILLED

H. Berkowitz, a dealer in woolen and cotton supplies, living at No. 182 Second street, Chelsea, was killed and Harry Bobinitski, also of Chelsea, suffered minor injuries when a horse driven by Berkowitz ran away up Harrison avenue to Nassau street. Berkowitz was thrown to the pavement, landing on his head.

PRESENT "RUTH" IN WORCESTER FESTIVAL

WORCESTER, Oct. 3.—The big musical novelty of the week of the fifty-fifth annual Musical Festival here, Schumann's "Ruth," will begin tonight.

Verdi's "Te Deum" and Horatio Parker's familiar "Hora Novissima" were used as the opening works for the Festival. An audience that filled nearly every seat in Mechanic's Hall listened with pleasure to the singing of a quartet and a superb chorus, and the playing of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The United Improvement Association has voted to approve the proposed issue of bonds of the city of Boston outside the debt limit, to the amount of $2,500,000 for the construction of new streets.

SERVICES EACH DAY ARRANGED FOR NEW CATHEDRAL CHURCH

With the change of the name to St. Paul's Cathedral, the church on Tremont street will become a church for all the people, with short and varied services every week day as well as every Sunday.

The week day services will include the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 8:30 a. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and at 11 a. m. on Thursdays and holy days. Every week day there will be morning prayer at 10 a. m., Sunday service and address at 12:10 p. m. with singing by a quartet of men; and evening prayer at 8 p. m.

SHAW'S WIFE IS DYING ALONE

WEST PELHAM, Oct. 3.—Friendless, deserted even by her own children who have no word of sympathy for her, Mrs. George Shaw is dying in a hospital at Northampton from bullet wounds inflicted by her husband. The man blew himself to bits with dynamite after the shooting. She cannot live, physicians say.

Neighbors of the Shaws are in general sympathy with the dead man, declaring that Mrs. Shaw went out of her way to provoke her husband.

COMPANY TO PAY EMPLOYES WHEN ON DUTY IN MILITIA

C. C. Cheney, manager of the General Electric Company of Pittsfield, has written to Captain Ambrose Clogher of Company F, State militia, promising to pay all employes absent for one or more days on service in the militia $1.50 a day. Adjutant-General Pearson of the State militia, in commenting on the letter, said:

"This step pleases me very much. If other employers of labor would do as much as this concern has done it would make a vast difference in the efficiency of the State militia."

MRS. WILSON NOT FEARING A SUIT

Charles H. Wilson, whip for Alfred G. Vanderbilt and manager of his stock farm at Newport, is registered at the Adams House today with his wife, who was Miss [illegible] Beasley of East Boston.

They could express little concern over the threatened suit of Miss Florence Schenck, the Virginia society girl, that was said to be a result of a row with the Suffolk County coroner against Mrs. Wilson for alienation of Mr. Wilson's affections.

It's only 300 feet from Washington street to this Great, Live Store—scarcely a minute's walk—yet that trifling distance from Boston's time-honored thoroughfare brings you to a bigger, newer and better men's store—a store that brings to fulfilment a long cherished ambition to do the largest men's clothing business in New England. A store that in 18 months has won a greater measure of public confidence than some stores win in a lifetime.

We have no quarrel with those stores that, because of high rent, charge account expenses and limited volume of business, are obliged to ask $5 more per garment than we do, but we are of the opinion that it's foolish for any man to give up that extra money unnecessarily. Thousands of Boston men who value their money at 100 cents on the dollar are coming to look at it the same way that we do.

Kuppenheimer Clothes for Fall

It's because of merit—and merit alone—that we feature these Good Clothes. They measure up flush with our established ideals of the kind of clothes good enough for our customers. They give the full measure of satisfaction that our policy demands and that you have the right to expect. The good looks and graceful "hang" of Kuppenheimer Clothes are as permanent as the virgin wool fabrics from which they are made. There's a style, fit and fabric here for every man.

Q.—What did he want? A.—More money principally.

Q.—Was that before your $100,000 contribution? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was anything said about the amount they wanted to raise at that time? A.—I don't think there was anything said.

Q.—What was the purpose of this un limited fund? A.—I don't know. It was to go to the national committee for the aid of the Republican party.

Q. Do you know of any other subscriptions to the Republican fund? A.—No

By Senator Pomerene.

Q. Did you have any conference in 1904 with business men touching the political situation? A.—No.

Q. Or the party with which they would ally themselves? A.—No.

By Senator Paynter

Q. Did you demonstrate with Messrs. Bliss and Hyde when they asked you for the $100,000 additional after you had contributed $100,000? A.—They all knew I had a million out of $1,000,000.

Q.—Did they seem grateful for the contribution? A.—Yes, gratitude was a virtue they seemed to lack.

Morgan said he had no knowledge of the fund which George B. Sheldon said yesterday was given by Gould, Archbold and Frick, amounting to $300,000.

By Senator Paynter

"They Wanted More."

Q - Do you realize that your interests and those of the country may not always be the same? A.—Yes I realize that.

Q.—Did they suggest the amount of the $50,000 gift? A.—They did not. They wanted more.

Morgan then said that the "emergency" which necessitated his gift was the Democratic activity in New York State.

Q. Did you mention that the $50,000 was there? A.—I did when I made it.

Judge Charles H. Duell, a New York banker who served as assistant treasurer of the Republican National committee in 1904 (he next witness was asked of Senator Paynter:

Do you know anything of a contribution made by John D. Archbold?

"No certainly not under that name. I understand that H. H. Rogers made a contribution but I do not know of Mr. Archbold ever giving anything. I don't think that Mr. Bliss ever mentioned or referred to any other amount than the $100,000 with the Standard Oil people. I am sure he never mentioned any other amount to me. I turned it over to Mr. Bliss and I do not know of any specific large contribution to the Taft or 1904?

A.—No, but I remember that three large insurance companies of New York gave $50,000 each. They were asked for $100,000 contributions.

Q. Do you know anything of the destruction of the Bliss records? A.—I do not.

Duell recalled a conversation with Bliss during the insurance investigation of 1905, when Bliss said:

"In 1896 every bank and trust company but one and most of the insurance companies contributed to the Republican national campaign. In 1900 very few did and in 1904 still fewer did."

By Senator Paynter

Q.—Do you remember who gave the four or five $100,000 gifts?

A.—I thought H. H. Rogers gave one of them. I don't remember any other name.

Rogers was not among those mentioned by Sheldon yesterday in his list of four financiers who contributed $50,000. Duell pleaded ignorance of the donors of most of the gifts because they were credited to "Cash."

By Senator Paynter

Q. Who kept the records of the subscriptions?

A. Mr. Bliss now dead.

Judge Duell said that through the country there were hundreds of contributions sent in, up to some to headquarters.

"E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia," said Duell "collected in Pennsylvania, Charles G. Dawes in Chicago, Secretary of the Navy Meyer in New England and Andrew Mills collected around the Union League Club in New York.

$10,000 from U. S. Steel.

"In this way David Jayne Hill sent about $2,000, Whitelaw Reid about $10,000, and the United States Steel Corporation, I believe $10,000. Smaller contributions were received from F. R. Hazard and Henry Holden of Syracuse N. Y. These contributions were made in 1904."

Under questions by Senator Pomerene, Duell said he never heard of any refusal of $100,000 to H. H. Rogers, John D. Archbold and the Standard Oil Company up to that time, the headquarters was closed.

"There was no refusal to any one as far as I know," said Duell.

He added that the Harriman fund consisted of five subscriptions. He would not be certain but believed that some of them were Harriman, Hamilton, Twombly and J. P. Morgan.

He could not recall the other. He said that Cortelyou seldom came into the New York office from the national committee, and then only when he needed money.

The committee then recessed until tomorrow when Colonel Roosevelt will testify.

SEEK PASSENGER WHO STOLE AUTO

A general police alarm has been sent out for a well-dressed youth of about twenty-three, who engaged David L. Kaplan, driver of a public automobile, to take him to Forest Hills to meet a woman, but Kaplan over the head with a black jack at a lonely part of South street, West Roxbury, drove Kaplan away and then rode off with the auto.

Kaplan told the police the youth hired the car at 11 o'clock at night at the auto stand at Washington and Boylston streets, saying he was expected to meet a woman at Forest Hills. At Forest Hill square no woman appeared and Kaplan was directed to drive around the square several times slowly, which he did.

Then he was ordered to drive out South street and stop his car. When the engine was stopped, Kaplan suddenly received a stinging blow on the head, then two more blows in quick succession. Fearing his passenger was crazy, Kaplan ran. He looked back and saw the passenger jump from the tonneau to the front, grasp the steering wheel, throw in the power and dart away. The car is a Lozier, Massachusetts license 10104.

Kaplan went to a doctor's office, then to Hyde Park police station.

LOUIS BURKHARDT DIES IN ROXBURY

Louis Burkhardt, for more than twenty years actively identified with the theatrical profession in Boston, died early today at his home at 14 Highland street, Roxbury, at the age of fifty six. He had been ill since last March. For twenty years he had been advertising agent of the Hollis Street, Colonial, Park, Tremont and Boston Theatres. Mr. Burkhardt leaves his wife and several children, among them Mrs. Mary Burkhardt, a South End school teacher, and Grover Burkhardt, treasurer of the Park Theatre. Mr. Burkhardt was a brother of William Harris, sr. of the theatrical firm of Charles Frohman, Hitch & Harris.

"MOONSHINER" COHEN GETS YEAR AND FINE

Reuben Cohen was sentenced to one year and a day and fined $100 today by Judge Morton in the United States District Court for maintaining an illicit distillery at Lakeville. The case of his brother Max, was placed on file, as he was looked upon as only an employe. Both were arrested on an old farm with manufacturing molasses brandy. Max will take care of a large family left by Reuben.

MORGAN'S SWORN TESTIMONY OF $150,000 ROOSEVELT DONATION

"Did you contribute to the Republican campaign of 1904?"
"I did."
"How much?"
"In October I gave them $100,000, and added $50,000 more on November 1st."
"Were you especially interested in the result of 1904?"
"I was."
"Also your firm?"
"I am my firm."
"Did you talk to Cortelyou during the campaign?"
"Yes."
"What did he want?"
"More money, principally."
"Did they seem grateful for the contributions?"
"No, gratitude was a virtue they seemed to lack."
"In 1908 did you make any contribution to the national campaign committee?"
"The only one I made was of $20,000 to Mr. Sheldon. It was paid in cash, not by check."—From J. P. Morgan's testimony before Senate committee today.

OIL SCHOONER IS IN DISTRESS OFF HIGHLAND LIGHT

Word was received in Boston this afternoon by the United States revenue cutter service from Highland light that the three-masted schooner Annie R. Lewis, bound for this city from Promised Land, N. L., with 1,000 barrels of oil aboard, was flying signals of distress just off the light. The revenue cutter Gresham has gone to her assistance. The schooner is owned by Rogers & Webb of this city. The ships main gaff is broken, her rigging damaged and she is leaking badly. A high sea is running.

JUDGE REFUSES TO ISSUE SUMMONS FOR MANAGER OF YOUNG'S

Judge Wentworth in the municipal court refused to grant a summons for William H. Reiters, manager of Young's Hotel, charged with violating the fifty-eight-hour law. The application was made by the State police, and the alleged violation occurred previous to the present strike at the hotel workers. In refusing to issue the summons Judge Wentworth declared that there was apparently a desire to involve the court in the present labor difficulties. He could not see why the complaint was not made before.

DELAY GRILL OF ALMY; DAKOTA DAN RECALLED

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.

Instead of continuing the examination of Ferdinand B. Almy at the Russell will tearing in East Cambridge Dakota Dan took the stand. The was a disappointment to many who came to court to hear William M. Scharton grill Almy.

Almy is an executor of the Russell estate and Scharton declares he is the arch conspirator in a plot to cheat Dakota Dan from his inheritance. Mrs. Almy was in court, today, expecting also, apparently, that her husband would be put on the rack.

Dakota Dan, somewhat recovered from his severe cold, was led back to the garden of the old Russell home by Robert Nason, attorney for the Russell estate. He walked in imagination among the flowers that his mother loved. He stood under the old sweet apple tree, recalling the luscious fruit that bulged his pockets when he went to school and was bashfully proffered to his teacher, perhaps with the hope of purchasing immunity from punishment.

He drew more diagrams of the premises—driveways, walks and other characteristics of the place as he recalled it as a boy.

Miss Hattie Keith, who has testified that she was Dan's sweetheart in those long ago days, watched him from her seat in the court room. She had appeared at the Dakota's benefit in Melrose last night, playing a piano solo.

I played an aria from Mignolette," said Miss Keith. "It was the last piece I played for Dan's father about two months before he died. It brought back a flood of pleasant recollections."

When the Dakotas had finished his drawing he explained it to Mr. Nason. He seemed to recall the grounds with great clearness. Master Gilbert A. Perry, who had a second view of the grounds yesterday, followed the ranchman's explanation with deep interest.

Mr. Scharton after looking over the will fight reflected told me today that he expected it would last until 1915. He said that the fight would be carried on to the highest court and only the death of Dakota Dan could stop it.

He has in mind one or two Independent suits, but does not desire as yet to discuss their nature.

It is estimated that the former trial cost the Russell estate something like $210,000. Then Fresno Dan came along. After having him under personal observation as it were, for a couple of days, William C. Russell declared, "He is my brother."

Wears Look of Disgust.

Dakota Dan having spent $25,000, began the present suit. He gets his room and meals for nothing. His attorneys receive no pay unless it is proved that this trial will cost the estate between $100,000 and $150,000. By 1915, if the estate is speedily and heavily dissipated as it is said to have been since the fight against Dakota Dan began, there will not be much to divide.

This may have something to do with the look of disgust with which Dan met the face of the usually good natured Fresno Dan. He could scarcely keep from picking oranges in a climate where there are no cast winds.

In one of my stories a few days ago, I said something about William C. Russell in his habitual retreat in the Melrose house of the Dakotas.

I said something about musty furniture, only because told about it by a visitor. But this was an error so far as dust or anything of that kind was concerned. Mr. Russell has a faithful colored man who keeps the place as bright and clean as a new pin.

Asked About Old House.

Dakota Dan was asked about the old house.

"Did you go out and in the front door as often as he rest?" asked Mr. Nason.

"We went in and out as we pleased," replied Dakota Dan.

"Sometimes there are restrictions, you know," explained Mr. Nason.

"Well, we used whatever door we wanted to," said the Dakota.

"Will you draw the front door entrance to the house?"

Dakota Dan smiled. He picked up his pencil and began to draw. "I'll be quite an artist when I get through," remarked the claimant.

"Are the steps to the front door wood or stone?"

"Wood. At least they were when I left home."

"Describe the front door."

"I can't guess the number. It was painted over."

"How large was it?"

"I don't remember."

Can't Remember Covering.

"Was it painted?"

"I don't know whether it was painted, stained or grained."

"What color was it?"

"Reddish brown."

"Did you see it painted?"

"I saw the painters at work, but don't remember them lighting any particular part of the house. Father would not allow us to stay around where the men were."

"Was there a place cut in the top step for a foot-cleaner?"

"I don't recall."

What He Found Inside.

"After you entered the front door what did you find?"

"The hallway. The first door to the east led to the parlor."

"Was it a double door?"

"Yes."

"How did they open?"

"Into the parlor. The doors had brass knobs. There were curtains that hung from a brass railing about two inches in diameter."

"Where was the hall stairway?"

On the other side from the parlor."

"What kind of steps were those of the hall stairway?"

"Marble."

Dakota Dan did not remember whether or not the hall stairway was marble. There was a landing on the stairway part of the way up. He had no recollection of the color of the front hall carpet.

"Do you remember the color of the parlor carpet?"

"Deep red."

Describes Furnishings.

"What furnishings were there in the front hall when you left?"

"There was a hatrack. It was between the single door and the double door. There was a small stand between the stairs and the door that opened from the hall into the dining room."

"Well, you had better give me another piece of paper," he said, "so that I can get everything in."

While Dakota Dan was reproducing as best he could the front hallway of the Russell home, Walton T. Russell came in and took a seat so that he faced the witness directly. Occasionally the "silent man in gray" leaned at the claimant at work. But he manifested no sign of interest. He has always appeared indifferent to the testimony. He never speaks to Almy or the lawyer unless he is addressed and then his reply is monosyllabic.

"How was the front hall heated?" asked Mr. Nason.

The furnace heated the whole house."

"Where was the register in the front hall?"

"I don't remember where it was."

"Were there any pictures in the front hall?"

"Yes, and there were a couple of mottoes. I don't know what the mottoes were, now."

The Russell Paintings.

"Were there any paintings in the front hall?"

"Once there was a large boat or ship there, but when I went away I think it was in the parlor. When father came home from the Philadelphia centennial he brought some pictures, but I can't remember how they were changed about."

The door into the music room is between the front door and the stairway, the claimant testified. This, too, was a double door.

"How many entrances were there to the music room?"

"Two—one from the hall and one from the dining room."

"How was the music room furnished?"

"Upholstered chairs, music box and organ."

"Were you in this room much?"

"Quite a little."

"When I this room used a great deal as a sitting-room?"

"No, but when guests came, father would play the organ and there would be singing."

"Were you in the room when Hattie Keith and her father were there?"

"Yes, Hattie said I used to be there playing about."

"Didn't you used to sit in the music room when Hattie played?"

Can't Remember Holding Hands.

"Well, I may have stood in the door."

"Don't you remember you and Hattie holding hands while her father played the organ?"

Dakota Dan hesitated as though weighing the question. Then he asked, with the semblance of a smile: "Will you please repeat that—I'd like to hear it again: it sounds so nice?" The stenographer read the question.

"No-o-o," drawled the Dakotan, "I don't remember it."

Hattie Keith, listening to the answer, blushed a tiny bit, because Hattie remembered those sweet, adolescent moments well, and recalled them on the witness stand. Dakota Dan's memory played him an ungallant trick there.

Mr. Nason had Dakota Dan draw the music room plan, indicating where every article was kept in his examination of witnesses, Mr. Nason is giving a marvelous exhibition of thoroughness and minuteness.

Dr. J. B. Tyndelle, of No. 666 Tremont street, who has been treating Dakota Dan, came to court today to see his patient.

$16.50 PREMIUM ON SYMPHONY SEATS

The highest premium paid for seats in the first seven rows for the twenty-four concerts of the opening concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at the auction sale today was $16.50 premium over the regular price for two aisle seats in row G. End seats on the right of rows B and C brought $2 premium. End seats on the left of row B brought $6 premium, against $2 premium last year.

PARADE AND BANQUET BY SALEM VETERANS

SALEM, Oct. 3.—The Salem Light Infantry Veterans' Association assembled for a parade and banquet today to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, with ninety-year-old Peter F. Savory of Lynn and Daniel T. Smith of Salem, two years his junior, as the premiere "vets" of the occasion. The veterans were escorted by the Second Corps (Salem) Cadets and a color guard. Senator Lodge heads the list of speakers.

The Flock of Dans

By C. L. P.

Like Autumn leaves they fill the air,
These Russell Danes;
They bob up here and everywhere
Like baseball fans.
The first to start the quota
Came blithely from Dakota.
No farther than the closed front door
The ranchman got.
"He's an imposter," Almy swore,
"Who has been taught."
While William calmly says "no,"
There pops up unburned Fresno!
The battle waged in court and town —
A year or so,
And then the ranchman was turned down
As Jim Russeau.
Dakota never rested;
Got Scharton and protested.
In "Tanktown Dan" a new heir's found
In cold Alaska;
Another's sure to come around
From Athabasca.
"Ay yust bane waiting," says Dakota,
"For wan Swede by Minnesota!"

THE DAKOTA DAN BUTTON, SOLD TO HELP CLAIMANT

The Dakota Dan button is now on sale. It is being sold for the benefit of the Dakota claimant to the name of Daniel Blake Russell. The schedule price is a dime, but friends of Dakota Dan give as much as they can and refuse to take any change.

The button shows the well known face of the claimant, encircled by the words "Dakota Dan Daniel Blake Russell."

Wearing it shows that one is a supporter of Dakota Dan. As he has hosts of adherents in Melrose and surrounding communities, the Dakota Dan button is a frequent sight.

WOMAN STRIKER SENT TO JAIL FOR 60 DAYS

LAWRENCE, Oct. 3.—After sentencing a woman striker to serve sixty days in jail on charges of assaulting other women, Judge J. J. Mahoney, sitting in the local police court today declared he would jail all L. W. W. members who were guilty of attacking peaceful mill operatives on their way to or from work.

Judge Mahoney declared that it was time for the authorities to protect the mill workers. He termed the I. W. W. the "carpetbaggers of the industrial world."

Judge Mahoney made the statement from the bench after he had fined Raffaela Nopoltana, a woman striker, guilty in two counts of alleged assault. The woman was accused of attacking Martha Schiller and Ada M. Onge, both of woom work in the mills. Judge Mahoney imposed a sentence of thirty days on each charge. The woman appealed and was held in $400 bonds.

After the case was disposed of, Judge Mahoney said:

"This case illustrates forcibly the situation in Lawrence at the present time. Here is a woman who came from Italy about one year ago; here are several girls, probably all born in Lawrence; this woman takes the right to drive them out of the mill, against their will, and to enforce her command that they strike.

"Can't these girls, with the men and women of Lawrence, work when they want to without being driven away from their employers?

"The last tenancy a new plan was made to induce some 5,000 lawless men and women directing our people out of the mills and to keep them out.

"Every 1,000 of these law-breakers started to drive 10,000 others out of the mills, and the papers said that it was a strike, although I feel safe in saying that not ten per cent. of those out were strikers.

"It is time for the authorities to protect our mill workers. The I. W. W.'s are carpet-baggers of the industrial world. In every instance, hereafter, when either a man or a woman engaged peacefully in work is accused of it, these disturbers of I will impose a jail sentence. So far as I can, I will endeavor to stop this lawlessness."

A report was circulated here today that Attorney Thomas B. Connolly was conducting an investigation of the strike for the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation.

Willard Howland, chairman of the State Board of Arbitration, said: "No such power has been given Mr. Connolly, if either he or his friends say that he is acting for the State Board they are not justified in so doing. Any man acting for the board is given written consent to act, and is paid by the Commonwealth. Mr. Connolly in no sense comes under either head, and is not in Lawrence at the board's request."

HAYWOOD SEEKS PERMISSION TO CARRY REVOLVER

SALEM, Oct. 3.—City Clerk J. Clifford Entwistle received a call from Edward B. Haywood, clerk of the Essex Superior Court, for forty-three more talesmen, Salem's quota to the second venire of 350 talesmen for the Ettor trial.

Haywood has also called a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen for tomorrow night to draw the jurors.

William D. Haywood and Fred Haslewood, the I. W. W. leaders, have applied to City Marshal Patrick J. Lehan for permission to carry loaded revolvers for self-protection, owing to the warning Haywood received from Vincent St. John against assassination. Permission to carry weapons here is granted only by the Mayor and Aldermen.

I. W. W. workers today acted as a volunteer guard over Haywood. Haywood went about his business as usual, and smiled at the talk of danger.

Last night, after Haywood had addressed a meeting at Lexington Hall, a hundred men volunteered to act as his guards. They went with him to a private house, where he and Carlo Tresca slept together, and stayed about the house till dawn.

The warning that Haywood's death was plotted came from Vincent St. John, General Secretary of the I. W. W.

"I reckon St. John knows what he's talking about," said Haywood, nonchalantly, but I'll just go ahead taking care of myself, and let it go at that."

But I. W. W. members in Lawrence took the situation more seriously. Everywhere the leader went he was escorted by the little band of men. They worked systematically, in regular shifts.

GENERAL STRIKE IF ETTOR IS CONVICTED, DECLARES HAYWOOD

LAWRENCE, Oct. 3.—William P. Haywood, member of the executive committee of the Industrial Workers of the World, declared this afternoon that a general strike would be called in nine cities and in every textile city in the country unless Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti were acquitted of the charge of inciting to murder in the murder of Anna Lo Pezzi, or in the event that their case was too long delayed.

FOUR ETTOR JURORS PASS THEIR FIRST DAY TOGETHER

SALEM, Oct. 3.—The four jurors so far chosen in the Ettor case spent their first day together today, glad at least that there are four of them, because four is a good conversational number, makes a round at whist, and is twice less monotonous than two.

The four men who have been drafted from their homes and occupations to serve their State at $5 a day and their "keep" are:

Christian W. Larsen, of Haverhill, barber; Robert S. Stillman, of Rockport, carpenter; Willis F. Cressy, of Gloucester, sailmaker; George F. Burgess, of Lynn, leather dealer.

Larsen and Stillman were chosen Monday and were located out of court sessions for two days. Cressy and Burgess were accepted yesterday. Rooms and meals for the four have been engaged at the Washington House, but the jurors will pass much of the time in the counsellors' room on the ground floor of the court house.

The counsellor's room is a fine, roomy apartment, fitted with padded arm chairs and sofas, big table, toilet accommodations and so on.

The jurors may have books and magazines but no newspapers which have articles bearing on the Ettor trial. This will be practically all newspapers, unless the deputies are able to cut out or blot out every line relating to the trial, editorial page or otherwise.

The jurors may play cards to their hearts' content. It is not known whether any of the four so far chosen have scruples against card playing but the deputies feel that any one who is satisfied in seating such couples in the present emergency.

What game of cards the jurors are to play is their own affair. A phonograph has been sent in for their amusement, also. The court house is about 30 yards from the hotel, a nice little walk for the jurors to and from meals.

Usually jurors have the trial events to discuss at the end of each day but these jurors have no such matter for conference. They can only wait for court to reconvene October 16 and hope that the remaining eight jurymen will speedily be chosen.

"MY DUTY TO PARTY DISCHARGED," SAYS GOV. DIX AT ALBANY

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Governor John A. Dix issued the following statement this afternoon on the work of the Democratic State Convention which turned down his candidacy:

"Every political convention is a law unto itself. The State convention has with entire unanimity confirmed the recommendation and platform declarations heartily endorsed by me and by the Democratic party over which it presided. It has therefore declaredly accepted my accomplishments in basing its appeal for a continuance of power upon the official record of the past two years. I feel that I have satisfied my attitude towards a renomination. My duty to my party is honorably discharged.

HARVARD GETS GRILLING WORK

The sunset red was gleaming o'er Soldiers Field before the squad of the Harvard football would be heroes heard the welcome call to stop work and get into a warm bath and clean clothes. The practice was especially grilling, consisting less of blackboard talk and signal drilling than of actual hicking and line plunging. The two varsity teams were pitted against each other, the varsity men always having the better of it, although repeatedly team B forced the regulars to punt. As usual, Felton was supreme in the kicking end of it, and his punts always went for gains.

What was more spectacular, if less reliable, was the beautiful work of T. Hardwick of team A, who succeeded twice in running sixty yards for a touchdown against the opposing scrubs, and who was able to puncture the line for substantial measures of territory each play.

The misfortune of the day came in the injury of Hitchcock. Harvard's veteran lineman and all-star tackle. As Hitchcock is one of the mainstays of the team, it will be looked forward to eagerly to see whether or not the damage which a scrimmage did to one arm is serious or not.

The signal formations were not startling, regulation plays being in order. The double pass and the fake kick are both being developed on a high scale, and the whole team is acquiring snap and ability at line bucking.

O'Brien has not been up to his usual form lately, and is being given special attention by the coaches, whose hope is that they can develop him fast enough so that he will be able to play more creditably in a varsity position. The other men are showing up well, particularly, as before mentioned, T. Hardwick. Logan is still the choice for quarter of many of the observers of the team, and the contest for positions in the line is only barely beginning.

Persons who hoped, with the introduction of the four-down rule to see large scores, will be disappointed, according to all indications. What most people fail to see is that four downs give four chances for defence as well as four attacks. In ability to gain on all four downs has been repeatedly shown in practice both on Harvard and other leading teams.

One thing which the Harvard coaches will have to bolster up is the goal kicking. There can be no doubt that in this, as well as in drop-kicking, the Crimson is still lamentably weak.

COME ON, YOU FANS, HELP THE STAHL FUND, TAKE IN THE BALL GAME

Come on, all you fans.

Help along the Jake Stahl Auto Fund by attending the big championship game at the Fenway Park Saturday between the St. Eulalias of South Boston and Somerville B. B. C. of Somerville.

The game will start promptly at 2:45. An admission of 25 cents will be charged for a grandstand seat.

John L. Sullivan, the former heavyweight champion of the world, will act as umpire. There is nothing slow about the old veteran as an umpire. He knows the game from A to Z.

So, "fans," if you have failed as yet to contribute to the fund, there is no better way to show your appreciation for the work Jake Stahl has done in bringing a pennant to Boston than by attending this game.

Big Semi-Pro Game for Stahl Auto Fund

All arrangements have been completed for the big championship game between the St. Eulalia s and the Somerville B. B. C., on Saturday at Fenway Park, for the benefit of the Stahl auto funds. Managers O'Gara and Halloran, of the opposing teams, met at the AMERICAN office and yesterday agreed to call the game promptly at 2:45. This hour was decided upon so as to give the "fans" a chance to get away early.

The Fenway grounds had been fixed up in tip-top shape, chalked, and covered with a canvas. It was decided not to take this canvas off until the opening game of the World's Series in Boston. But, at the last moment, the Red Sox management gladly turned over the park for the youngsters to use in deciding the semi-professional championship of Greater Boston. Anything to help Jake Stahl.

The two fastest teams in Greater Boston will meet in this game. They are teams capable of putting up an excellent article of ball—many items of major league calibre—otherwise they would not have been secured. The St. Eulalias are champions of South Boston and the Somerville B. B. C. holds the title in Somerville.

Every fan who can possibly attend this game should do so, in order to show his appreciation for the work Jake Stahl has done in bringing a pennant to Boston.

The two teams will line up as follows:

Somerville B. B. C.—Budreau, c. f.; Coburn, l. f.; F. Graham, 2b.; McDonald, s. s.; Hagan 1b.; Rogers, 2b.; A. Graham, p.; Whalen, r. f.; Logan, c.

St. Eulalia—Norton, 2b.; Ambrose, r. f.; Murphy, c.; Sullivan, 3b.; Mahoney, c. f.; Moore, l. f.; Kane, s. s.; Connell, 1b.; Martes, p.

HICKS NOT IN SMITH'S CLASS

By JACK CONWAY.

DAVE SMITH, the Australian middleweight and heavyweight champion, is some boxer. And this goes even though Mr. Edward McGoorty, "middleweight" extraordinary who hails from Oshkosh, Wis., knocked him out in a single round in New York recently. Smith made his debut in a Boston ring at the Pilgrim A. A. last night and he made good with a vengeance.

The Australian champion was pitted against a gentleman by the name of Fredrick Hicks who comes from Detroit. Dave handed Hicks about as gently as he did his poor sparring partners the other afternoon. The only difference was that Smith's helpers made a pretence at fighting while the young man who comes from the town that Messrs. Cobb, Crawford and Jennings put on the map had a very high respect for the power of Smith's wallops and he kept as far away from the Australian as possible and at the same time keep inside of the ring.

DICK KLEGAN'S battler had the best of the going in every round. He bored rings around his opponent and at no stage of the game was he in the least danger. All that Hicks appeared was a right hand punch and it took him ten seconds before he could get at this blow started. In the meantime Smith had plenty of time to prepare his defence.

In the entire twelve rounds, Hicks landed about fourteen solid smashes though a "fan" from Roxbury stated that he officiel counts was fifteen.

• • •

SMITH showed remarkable ability as a box boxer. He was as fast as lightning on his feet and experienced little difficulty in avoiding Hicks' rushes. The Australian beat his left hand working overtime and scored with a stiff left jab time and again. He would then cross his right to Freddy's jaw or stomach.

The Detroit boxer kept "covered up" a large part of the time. Smith, however, was able to break down his guard. Hicks would then try to swap punches but in every case he got the worst of the mixing.

• • •

THE lad from the Antipodes gave an excellent exhibition of hocking. He would stand in the centre of the ring and knock down his opponent's well meant punches with hardly an effort.

The management of the club will probably sign Smith up for another bout in two weeks' time. His opponent will be Jack Dillon or some other leading 158 pounder.

• • •

THE semi-final bout of eight rounds was a thrilling affair. It was between Charles Silvergle of Beverly and Joe Nelson of Lawrence. Both men are terrific punchers and the going was fast from the tap of the gong. It was a case of give and take in the first four rounds with the honors slightly in favor of Nelson.

The Lawrence battler fought like a wounded lion in the fifth round and Silverio was on the verge of going down for the fatal count when the bell sounded for the end of the chapter. The fast pace, however, told on Nelson and his seconds were forced to toss the sponge into the ring as he was unable to start the sixth round as he had been taken suddenly ill.

Cy Goodwin defeated Johnny Cox in the first six-round preliminary while Jack Manley and Gus Leaney fought a draw in the other six-round contest.

Harvard Crews Start Workouts on River

The opening of Fall rowing on the river started when Captain C. T. Abeles, coxswain of the Harvard Varsity crew, shoved his craft off the wharf and with a sharp "Position, eight," started them down stream. Of the eight rowers in the boat at least three will be veterans this year, without counting the coxswain.

Thirty men reported for business, and three eights were sent out, Coach "Jim" Wray going out himself in a single scull to coach them. The work for the first day was ragged, as is natural, but considering the earliness of the season, and the state of the crews, the showing was first rate. The men still lack the unison of swing, and the absolute rhythm of stroke which will come with practice, but even as they are, they make a first rate sight.

The suitor freshman crew, with the varsity veterans, Metcalf, Goodale, Newton and Abeles, are available for the crew this year. Prospects are good for the development this Fall of material which may be made into another winning crew next June.

It is said at the boathouses that time will be given to the development of a short stroke suitable for the two-mile race which Harvard annually rows and usually loses to Cornell. Whether it will be possible to accomplish this consistent with the construction of an eight that will be able to stand the more grilling four-mile contest at New London is problematic, and the endeavor will be watched with interest.

GOTHAM SEAT SALE TO START ON MONDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The advance sale of reserved seats for the world series baseball games in this city will be held at the Polo grounds Monday, October 7, at 10 a. m., it was announced today. Four thousand upper grandstand seats for each of the three games, at $3 each, will then be ready for the first comers. The tickets for the respective games will be put on sale at separate windows in order to give a larger number opportunity to buy them. No more than two tickets will be sold to each person.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

He "Don't Care."

By MORTON BIRGE

THEY told him his partner was hurrying North,
With most of the cash that the business was worth,
And he smiled.

He skidded his motor car into a tree,
And when he was conscious he chuckled in glee,
Like a child.

His dwelling caught fire and was burned to the ground,
And thieves stole his goods, which were scattered around.
Not even when told not a thing could be found,
Was he riled.

His wife served him notice in suit for divorce,
But he took it all as a matter of course,
And said nit.

A hold-up man hammered him nearly to death,
He joked till the doctors were laughed out of breath
As his wit.

When asked how a man so courageous could be,
He said: "I am sure the World Series to me
I've just got my tickets. You can't worry me.
Not a bit!"

Commerce High Has A Speedy Eleven

The High School of Commerce is represented by a strong eleven this Fall and hopes to make a creditable showing. Last year the Fenway team did splendid work on the gridiron and with many veterans still in school this year's eleven should do even better.

Games will be played with all of the big Boston high schools and also with some of the suburban schools. The schedule for the rest of the season is as follows:

October 8, Beverly High at Beverly. October 11, s. o., Roxbury High at Brookline. October 15, Mechanic Arts High School. October 18, New Bedford High at New Bedford. November 2, Dorchester High at Dorchester avenue. November 8, Lawrence High, at Lawrence. November 20, English High School. November 26, s. o., Arlington High School at Allston.

$50,000 Returned to the New York Fans

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Fifty thousand dollars in checks received at the offices of the New York Giants and the National League for tickets to the world's baseball series has been returned to senders, it was learned today. There was no mail sale of tickets scheduled for this year's series, but this fact did not prevent a flood of letter applications. These have been received by the thousand in both offices, much to the disgust of the official staff in both places, the only thing to do being mailing back the check with a note congratulating the conditions under which tickets for the big series will be sold.

The most common method was to return them with a note saying that the subject of tickets was in the hands of the National Commission. At the offices of the National League was entirely buried by the flood of applications.

The only thing he could do was to announce that only reserved seats would be placed on a date to be announced through the newspapers, it is said this sale will take place at the Polo Grounds next Monday to afford ticket speculators as little time as possible to dispose of tickets before the series begins.

GEORGE LOWE GIVES UP TEAM CAPTAINCY

Because of injuries to his knee which may keep him out of several of the games, George R. Lowe has resigned his captaincy of the Arlington football team, and Wendell Reycroft has been chosen in his place. Lowe is also captain of the hockey and baseball teams, and it is his intention to save himself as much as possible for these sports.

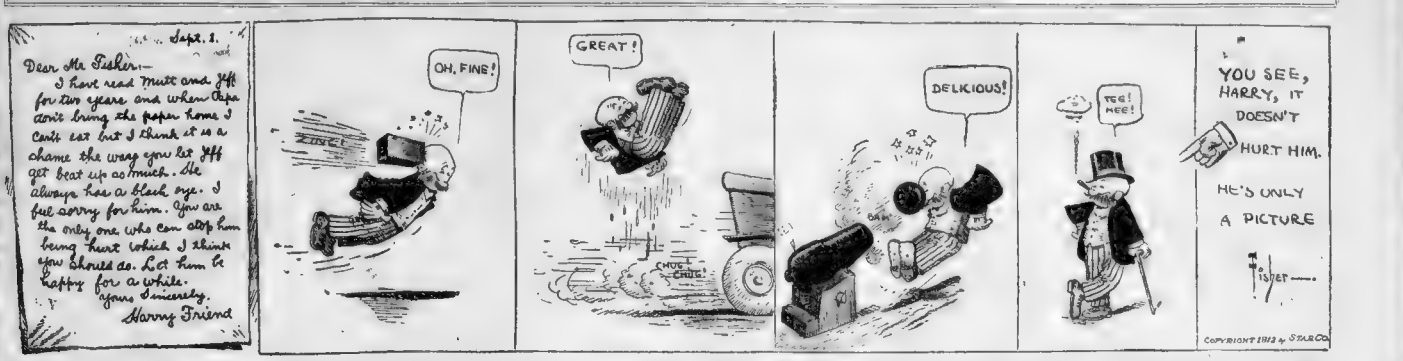
DUFFY LEWIS MAY HANDICAP HIS TEAM ON POLO GROUNDS

Now, Really, Harry, Jeff Doesn't Mind It a Bit — By "Bud" Fisher



Sept. 1.
Dear Mr Fisher.—
I have read Mutt and Jeff for ten years and when Papa don't bring the paper home I can't eat but I think it is a shame the way you let Jeff get beat up so much. He always has a black eye. I feel sorry for him. You are the only one who can stop him being hurt which I think you should do. Let him be happy for a while.
Yours Sincerely,
Harry Friend

WORLD'S SERIES AT THE ARENA

When the Red Sox open the World's Series games at the Polo Grounds, New York, next Tuesday, thousands of fans will crowd the over 8,000 seating capacity of the Boston Arena to an overflow. The most elaborate and expensive reproduction of a baseball game ever attempted will be pulled off at the Arena.

The Boston AMERICANS best baseball experts, sitting in their reserved sections of the press box at the Polo Grounds, will be in control of the gigantic playing board and megaphones now being installed in the Arena. Two special leased wires will run direct from the New York grounds into the Arena by special permission of the management of the Polo Grounds. The AMERICAN'S experts will bring it to the crowd in the Arena at 1 o'clock all about the practices, warming up and crowds.

The Naval Brigade Band, assisted by the song leaders, will help in keeping up the game enthusiasm, up to the time the game is called, at 2 p. m. You will be able to sit in a comfortable seat, smoke if you wish, and when the game is on for every play. Just the same as you would in a grand stand seat.

There has been quite a demand for seats in groups from parties of fans, clubs and societies.

The AMERICAN has made special arrangements to seat such parties together for the game by applying by mail to "Baseball" box office, Boston Arena. The regular reserved seats are 50 cents. The general admission is 25 cents. But any club secretary or body of fans of five or more may obtain special reservations now at which their seats will be assigned, Monday, October 7, when the box office is open at 10.

GIANTS' SUNFIELD MAY BOTHER SOX STAR

STAHL IS WORRIED OVER LEWIS

By L. R. MURDOCH

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Will the left field sun-garden at the polo grounds bother Duffy Lewis to such an extent as to handicap the Red Sox in next week's fight for the world's championship?

That seems to be the only problem that concerns Jake Stahl's American League champions today. Lewis does not think it will, and Jake Stahl believes that Duffy will cover the bothersome sun-field all right, but outsiders wonder if there is a chance that in a tight game something will happen there.

Lewis was bothered so much by the sun at the Cleveland baseball park that the peerless left fielder of the Red Sox fell down there when he first assayed the new grounds.

So, when the pennant was won at Cleveland the team forgot about the baseball game for a day or two, and were routed in the only series in which they have been completely vanquished this year. The reason they tightened a bit and have won six out of the nine games since played.

Hooper at Home in Sunlight.

Hooper is the natural sun gardener of the Red Sox, and he has to play with Old Sol in his eyes on every park except those at Cleveland and Washington.

But Jake Stahl could not be coaxed to change his lineup for anything less than an avalanche, so Hooper will play right field and Duffy Lewis will stick to left field, sun or no sun, and regardless of the fact that John McGraw changes his Murray and Devore whenever the sun changes.

Lewis was mixed up with the sun in the last Senators' game, but the contention in his favor in his fight with the old sphere aloft is that everybody is troubled by him, and it would make no particular difference who played with the sun shining in his eyes. If there must be errors on that account almost anybody is likely to suffer from them.

Next week's games will begin at 2 o'clock, and in midsummer such early starts have been disastrous to the sunshelders. The first games of the earliest double-headers in all cities have been productive of more errors directly traceable to the sun than any other cause.

But the season is late now, and Old Sol won't be so active as he is in summer. On that fact the Red Sox base the hope that Lewis will not be troubled to such an extent that the Sox should worry about it.

Stahl Will Not Change.

The Boston team will be handicapped somewhat, and those who hope that the Giants will win can place a bit of confidence in the polo grounds sun-field "hope."

It might help the Giants a lot in any event. Jake Stahl will play Lewis in left field, and Duffy himself is confident that he will get away with that stunt at the polo grounds.

When you stop to think of it, the Red Sox have done a remarkable job in baseball since the day in Cleveland that they won the American League pennant, by virtue of an afternoon's rest and the White Sox victory over the Athletics.

With Jake Stahl's acquiescence the team just dropped its interest in baseball for a few days and had the best relaxation in the world. Jake is an "iron" manager to the extent that when he wants a thing done he wants it done, and insists upon it and gets it, but he is the kind of manager who does not insist on having things done when it would be better for himself and his ball team if it were not done.

In other words, Jake is a practical man and not a martinet. He runs his team for the purpose of winning pennants and not for the sake of showing off Jake Stahl.

So, when the pennant was won at Cleveland the team forgot about the baseball game for a day or two, and were routed in the only series in which they have been completely vanquished this year. The reason they tightened a bit and have won six out of the nine games since played.

Chance for the Dopesters.

If you are trying to "dope out" the World's Series you should keep this in mind. A ball team under absolute orders to take no chances, to play as they pleased and with a pennant won, went ahead and took six out of nine games.

In other words, not caring whether they lost or not, the Red Sox played at least as good baseball as the Giants did when the Giants were fighting their hardest. Part, at least, of the "second string" appeared in all of these games.

They lost one and won one at Detroit, the last game being Joe Wood's first defeat since July 4, and being traceable in Manly Krug's muff of a fly ball with three on bases. They then won three out of four from the New York Yankees, after which they went to Washington and beat the Senators two out of three without half trying.

The team, therefore, has played off and still maintained a .667 per cent. average since it won the pennant, and, in fact, has won six of its last eight games an average of .750.

BILL SWEENEY WILL TACKLE VAUDEVILLE

While the Red Sox are battling at Fenway Park next week for the World's Series, the fans do not want to forget that there is to be other doings in baseball circles. Captain Bill Sweeney of the Boston Nationals is about to make his vaudeville debut. He will play on home grounds every afternoon and evening of next week at the Orpheum Theatre, and it is safe to say that the grandstand and bleachers will be filled at every performance. If Bill's material is as good as his baseball playing he is sure to be an instant success and there is no reason why he should not, as his act has been arranged by one of the cleverest of writers.

PUT GLIDDEN TOUR OVER TO NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—There will be no Glidden automobile tour this year. This was announced by the national tour committee of the American Automobile Association, which decided to postpone the contest until some time next year. The principal reason was that many automobilists who wanted to enter the contest did not care to be away from their homes for three weeks just before election.

DREYFUSS PICKS RED SOX TO WIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Supporters of the Giants received a jolt today when they read in the newspapers that Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburg National League Club, declared that in his opinion the Red Sox would defeat McGraw's men in the world's series.

That National League club owner says:

"In the world's championship event Boston, with its superior outfield and pitching staff, with two such twirlers as Wood and Collins on it, has an advantage.

"Had the teams met last Spring, when the New Yorkers were going great guns, I should have pinned my faith on the Giants. But now it is different."

Dreyfuss, who is known to wager heavily on his choice in all the world's series, is backing the Red Sox to win the prize.

Several large bets on the outcome of the struggle have been made in this city and a well-known sporting man was authority for the statement that Dreyfuss is backing the Boston Americans to his limit.

Bill Carrigan, catcher and one of the three men, Jake Stahl and "Heinie" Wagner being the others, whose "inside" strategy has won the American League pennant for the Red Sox is writing a series of stories for the AMERICAN.

Carrigan has trained the Red Sox pitchers and is credited by the players as the man who taught them most of their "big league" baseball. Yesterday he discussed the game the Red Sox are now playing. From now on he will discuss the strength and weakness of the opposing teams in the World's Series.

Today he tells about the pitching staffs, tomorrow about the offensive work of the teams, Saturday about the defensive work and Sunday he will sum up, what the Red Sox may be expected to do, so far as baseball can be discussed reasonably.

MANAGER CHANCE TO LEAD CUBS IN SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Manager Frank L. Chance of the Chicago Nationals, for the first time since he was operated on recently in New York for a blood clot in the spinal canal, appeared on the ball field yesterday. His visit to the park was made at the morning practice and was not expected by the players. He intends personally to take command during the city series between the Nationals and Americans, and his task today was confidention of changes in the batting order that might place to better advantage the five left-handers among the Cubs.

WANT SATURDAY GAME.

Owing to the fact that the Somerville Baseball Club has cancelled their game with the Mt. Hope A. A. for next Saturday, the Mt. Hope team is without a game for Saturday, Oct. 5. They would like to arrange a game with Wakefield for October 12, or some other fast team. Telephone Bellevue 21078, J. F. Kelly.

CARRIGAN DISCUSSES SOX PITCHERS

WOOD GOOD FOR 3 GAMES A WEEK

By BILL CARRIGAN.

It is common knowledge that Boston expects Joe Wood, more than anybody else, to pitch so successfully in the world's series as to beat the Giants and give the Red Sox the honors and the glory. Those critics in New York who are not in the confidence of the Giants, have some of them, upon the feeling that Wood may not be able to pitch on the third day as well as he does upon the first day and one of them may think that while Wood will probably win his first game, he cannot go in and pitch so successfully in the third game.

Of course, they assume that Wood will pitch the first and third games. Nobody knows whether he will. The manager of the Red Sox, "Jake" Stahl, may not run his game that way. You will have to wait and see how he places his pitchers. All that the Red Sox can say is that Wood is one of the best pitchers who ever handled a ball and that he can be relied upon to give a superb exhibition of pitching not only on the first day he is on the mound but, jumping over a day on his second appearance and also on the third time he pitches in our work.

Good for Three Games a Week.

I believe at that this time of the year with Joe Wood in his present condition he can pitch successfully three times a week in a short series and do as well on the third day as he did on the first.

Wood is a much huskier man than he was last year. He has filled out. He is in excellent physical condition. The cool weather will help him. He will not lose strength for excessive perspiration as he would in warmer weather.

He can show that he can pitch two games a week and do as well in the second game as in the first, and when a man knows this after a short series in our work, he does not have to keep on working the same way for a week, there is no doubt that he can put in a third game in the week.

There is a mistaken idea that a fast ball pitcher suffers more from work than a curve ball pitcher does. The fast ball pitcher does, in fact, aside from the matter of general strength, it comes just to a point where his arm must have a rest. Wood's arm would not become tired by pitching three games, if necessary, in a week, and particularly since he does not have to save up anything for other weeks. We have a remarkable pitching staff, including Wood. There is Ray Collins, for instance. Collins has better control than any other left-handed pitcher in baseball today. He is a sure careful pitcher. He has a good fast ball and a very deceptive drop. Before leaving the ball he turns his body so that the batter has to face the ball as it comes before they realize it.

Then there is Charley Hall. He is the best passive pitcher in either league, they say. I have ever seen. It takes nerve to pitch the way he does, and Hall has the nerve. He too, has a deceptive motion. Before delivering the ball he turns his back to the batsman, and the ball is on him before he knows it. He has great speed, and a very good curve ball.

"Buck" O'Brien is a championship pitcher. "Buck" has a deceptive "spit ball," and also wears his speed. He did not accumulate the percentage record he might have had this year but, as he used to pitch some very tough games of ball

Bedient Fools 'Em, Too.

Hugh Bedient is another pitcher with plenty of speed, a good curve ball, and a fast, deceptive motion. He, too, is a team work pitcher. All of these pitchers are open to an all-win proposition.

I should say in Wood's case that he pitches about a hundred balls in a game and that three-quarters of them are fast ones. He uses a slow ball now and then, but not often. He has a slow curve, but he uses it only once in a while. Wood leaves few chances. He knows his fast ball is good and he uses it.

The pitching corps is exceptionally good, because there is not one of them who does not eagerly help the others. They exchange ideas and accept the others' tips with the best nature. Each is more than willing to give and get points. I have seen games if necessary. I have never seen more and better spirit in a pitching corps. They all pull together all the time.

Of course we have not seen the finish pitchers do much work and haven't faced them. It stands to reason that Mathewson is not the "Matty" of old, although you know that "Matty" was always a great baseball pitcher and he is not.

Marquard, we are told, has a good fast ball and some curves. If he has not been pitching lately as he did when he was making big great records. Tesreau is another proposition. He has good drops, his outfield and has speed. We are informed that Mc Graw will depend on his upon those three pitchers. With at any of opposing words in them there are all good, and I am satisfied that we have by far the better pitching corps and that it will be shown in every game to satisfaction in next week's games.

How He Escaped

VISITORS to the stately home of Sir Walter Scott at Abbotsford may still see on the walls on an inner room over the great novelist's study a picture which tells of a curious incident in the family history of the Master of Kilbank. The picture was painted by Sir Walter's friend, Kirkpatrick Sharpe, and the author of "Waverley" was fond of relating the story to his friends.

A certain Sir William Scott, from whom Sir Walter was descended, was Bailiwick-depute to plaintiff, the cousin of Sir Gideon Murray of Elibank, ancestor to the present Lord Murray. The marauder was defeated, seized, and brought in fetters to the castle of Elibank upon the Tweed. The Lady Murray (agreeably to the custom of all ladies in ancient times) was seated on the battlements and descried the return of her husband with his prisoners. She immediately inquired what he meant to do with the young Knight of Hardies, as Sir William Scott was more generally known. "Hang the robber, assuredly," was the answer of Sir Gideon. "Weel," answered the lady, "Hang the handsome young Knight of Hardies when I have three ill favored daughters unmarried! No, no, Sir Gideon; we'll force him to marry our Meg."

Now, tradition says that Meg Murray was the ugliest woman in the four counties, and that she was called, in the homely dialect of the time, "Meikle-mouthed Meg." Sir Gideon, like a good husband and tender father, entered into his wife's sentiments, and proffered to Sir William, the alternative of becoming his son-in-law or decorating with his carcass the "kindly" gallows of Elibank.

The lady was so very ugly that Sir William, the handsomest man of his time, positively refused the honor of her hand. Three days were allowed him to make up his mind; and it was not until the [illegible] one end of a rope made fast to his neck and the other knitted to a sturdy oak bough that his resolution gave way and he preferred an ugly wife to the literal noose. It is said they were afterwards a very happy couple. She was a curious hand at picking the beef which as stole; and, moreover as he was, he had little reason to dread being twitted with the fact that he married her only to escape the gallows.

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"GEORGE," said the Manicure Lady to the Head Barber, "have you ever did any crying since you grew up?"

"I might have sniffed a little," replied the Manicure Lady's friend George, "but I can't remember it. Why? What's the answer?"

"Oh, I was just wondering if grown up men ever cried much," said the Manicure Lady. "I seen the old gent crying last night, and it seemed sort of funny, because he had just came home from organizing a new lodge with some of his brother order-joiners, and usually, George, after one of them sessions, the old boy is as full of sunshine as the aurora borealis is full of colors."

"You mean the aurora borealis," the Head Barber said, by way of correction, "Parabolis is something that they give kids to make them go to sleep."

"I guess you couldn't sleep peaceful if you didn't get a chance about once every ten minutes to air your knowledge," said the Manicure Lady, favoring the Head Barber with a glance of supreme disdain. "But anyhow, I ain't the kind of a girl that lets the vaporing of a whisker whittler's brain put me off my mental equity, or whatever they call it. I wanted to tell you about the old gent, and so to get back to him.

"Father came home crying, and crying actual, George. I don't mean none of them stage tears. I mean that he was sobbing on the level, crying like one of them Yellowstone Park geysers. I thought at first that he was going to choke himself to death with salt water. And do you know what he was crying for, George? On the level, I guess you couldn't guess it in a million years. He was crying because at this here lodge meeting he had met a friend of his that had a friend that had went to Princeton, and it seems that this here friend of his that had went to Princeton had a friend in the same class with Mister Wilson, and was afraid Mister Wilson wasn't going to be elected President of the United States. I suppose the friend Pa met done all of the crying first, but it must have acted kind of sympathetic with the old gent, because by the time he got home he was weeping willingly himself.

"Tears is funny things, George. If a great sex a lady weeping tears that spring unbidden from her heart, he puts the old frosty face and says something about the weakness of a mere woman, but let me whisper something, as Sam Crane would say—the tears that has been shed by all the women in the world ain't done, two, three with the tears that is shed by gents—old gents and young gents—after coming home from a lodge meeting."

"I never cared much for lodges, and I never cried much since I grew up," said the Head Barber. "What little I cried I always choked off kind of quick, by thinking of something funny, like musical comedies."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the Manicure Lady. "Thinking of most of the musical comedies that I have saw would make me cry all the harder."

Household Hints

If a wall be damp and the paper is always loose, get a piece of twill sheeting and paste well; then stick on the wall. When dry, paper on the top, and it will be found to be much better than pitch paper.

The best way to warm up a joint is to wrap it in thickly greased paper, and let it remained while in the oven. By having it covered thus the steam will prevent the meat from becoming hard and dry, and the joint will get hot through in less time.

If an extra bright polish is required in the case of ordinary box-calf leather, the blacking should be mixed with cold tea instead of water. This should be applied to the footgear in the usual manner, and when dry the leather polished with a stiff, hard brush.

The occasional application of common table salt is sometimes advised for cleaning the teeth. The gums also are rubbed with the salt. A mouthful of milk of magnesia rinsed about the teeth every night before retiring will correct the tendency to acidity, and act as a preventive of decay that results from chemical decomposition.

A very little vinegar cooked with coarse meat helps to make it tender, or the meat may be dipped in vinegar before cooking. A small piece of apple cooked in a meat pie or stew also makes the meat tender. Heating coarse meat with a rolling pin breaks the fibre and helps to make the meat tender.

Wash white kid slippers well with benzine, using a soft brush; then, well in fresh benzine, and while the slippers are wet run a little French chalk thoroughly into them. This helps to remove the black marks the slippers obtain by wearing. Then put the slippers away to dry and they will look quite fresh and clean.

WILL TONE UP THE STOMACH AND STRENGTHEN THE NERVES

The stomach of the American people is degenerating, caused from over eating, lack of exercise and neglect of health laws. We stuff our bodies with all kinds of food and all the food we can eat, fail to take sufficient exercise, eat too hastily and without proper discrimination as to diet. Then again, women eat too much candy and sweetmeats. This is bad for the welfare of the individual, but even more so to the community, because of its prevalence.

Such a diet becomes a habit and an abnormal craving is created. Taken with irregular hours of sleep—too little sleep one day and too much the next—the stomach gets out of order and the entire nervous system is shattered. We see this on every hand every day. It is a growing menace to the physical prosperity of the nation.

Our forefathers lived sample lives. They ate sparingly of plain food, worked hard and slept soundly. They were strong men and they did big things. If we are to keep up to their standard and resist invasions of modern life, we must get back to sound, healthy living.

If you feel sick, tired, run down, have a bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, feel distressed after eating and have frequent headaches, your stomach is out of order.

Cooper's New Discovery will tone up the stomach, aid in the digestion of food and strengthen the nervous system. It will also regulate your bowels, relieve you of constipation and restore your energy, ambition and appetite. For sale at all druggists.

This shows a section of one of the enormous locks of the Panama Canal. An idea of the great height can be gained by comparing the size of the man with the height of the retaining wall.

What Did Mother Say?

The kitchen was deserted. Through the western window the last red rays of the setting sun poured into the room, making all the commonplace things crimson and fearful. Great, livid stains lay on the floor and dyed the window blinds.

On the hearthstone lay a hatchet with ominous red stains on it. The floor near by was vivid with a great scarlet splodge. The very air seemed to quiver with horrid mystery.

Slowly the door opened and a girl entered, sallow of face and stealthy of tread. Her long red hair was gathered in a careless, untidy knot. She stood awhile, bathed in the lurid light from the window, her eyes fixed covetously on the hideous hatchet and the telltale stain on the floor. Then a shudder ran through her slender frame, and she despairingly threw her hands aloft.

"What—oh, what will mother say?" she gasped. "Won't she be furious when she finds out that I tried to open the tin of tomatoes with the chopper!"

His Specialty

It was in a railway carriage and the company comprised several commercial travelers and a stout, elderly gentleman, who sat snugly in one corner engrossed in his paper.

Each and all of the others made desperate efforts to draw their silent, stout companion into conversation, but to no purpose. He merely sat there reading.

At last one of them determined to settle the matter.

"Pardon me, sir," he said suavely, "but I feel sure that you are one of us. What do you travel in?"

The others bent forward eagerly, as the stout man slowly lowered his newspaper and peered through his spectacles, with sad and meanchoky mien, at the persistent one.

"Well, my friend," replied he, "at present I am travelling in very primitive and objectionable company, and the carriage is full of samples."

A Nature Snapshot

By RAYMOND BURKE.

THE short turf—cropped by no living animal but by the weed, bearded with samphire, blazoned with the delicate blush of sea pinks, sprinkled with the bleaching bones of little crabs that shone like ivory carvings flung broadcast, vertly the harvest of the winds—came down to the water's edge, and stopped short.

The water was faintly green and clearly dark. It was quite still, like glass, between its strange bluish, glass across which the fairy shadow of a swallow on that sickle shape cast by the meteoric swift, glided from time to time. Under the shadow of the tamarisk bushes it was translucent black.

"See-ing—see-ing—see-ing!"

A meadow pipit shot his brown little feathered body into the air, hung suspended, trickling out his quaint song and dropped again like a fairy from a tray.

Two little knob-like projections, as it were black beads on stalks, rose above the still surface, remained for a moment motionless, then began to move along rapidly. They suggested the twin periscope of some fairy submarine. But they were nothing of the sort, being, in fact, the eyes of a large, dark-green, black-characterd shore crab.

Looking carefully along the surface, one saw that all over its glassy expanse eyes on stalks were lifting, holding still for an instant, then gliding along, all one way. Between them, in and out, it seemed as though minute silver knives were cutting the water. They were the black fins of little fish, going the same way.

The tide had turned.

This was three miles from the sea, and a few inches of water one could have make sure it was a stream—still as a pond, but—the tide had turned! And it knew it. So did the crabs, so did the little fish. The sandhoppers knew; also the samphire. It knew it would have to wait twelve hours for another drink. And they were all acting out together. The water had strangely mysteriously spoken.

But if the water had warned them, she had also passed them under. A little further on a sort of cart track—a mere, hardened walk for cattle—crossed that water. At the place where it crossed gravel had been dropped to shallow it. So it happened that where the little creatures coming up had passed merely over gravel, in deepish water, they now found, as it were, a tiny succession of rapids. The water here was clear as crystal, bubbling and racing, and barely half an inch deep in places.

The crabs took it like—well, like crabs. Boldly they landed, and boldly they crossed the intervening open ground to deep water. If anything got in the way, be it man or mouse, they coolly charged—sidewise, of course, as crabs do. It was a case of kill or be killed with anything that barred their passage to water, be the crab as big as a tea plate, or as small as a penny.

The little fish, however, could not land. They ran the gauntlet almost—to do it in detail would attract the equally gory—darting at each sweep that their own lapping carried them over water too shallow to float them. They looked like jets and spurts of silver.

When a long-legged heron came and tried to spear them, they looked like forked lightning. One by one they went through. A streak, a flicker, a dizzy zig-zagging, a darting, twisting, dodging something, and the fish was gone. Many got through. Few were caught, and the heron went away. He had not noticed that each fish took the same line to a fraction of an inch. That was the miracle.

They never made a blunder, never followed a blind alley of water. Yet the way they had chosen was the only way. A deviation of one-quarter of an inch on either hand would have stranded them hopelessly, openly helpless.

Relief Without Opiates from RHEUMATISM

Sciatica and Neuritis

The absence heretofore of any genuine relief for the scores of sufferers from these diseases has already been brought home to us by the extraordinary interest manifested in our previous announcement printed in this paper.

We look for some skepticism—but the prodding pains of rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis cannot long stand before the proved formula of the work before us. Our remedy, "Neurita," the prescription in powder form which is a positive antidote for uric acid poison.

Inquiries and calls are coming in from all sides, indicating a vastly greater number of sufferers than we had supposed there were in and about this city. This makes it all the more important that our announcement regarding "Neurita" should have the most general circulation.

It is a physician's prescription, pharmaceutically compounded, without a trace of opiate, narcotic or any harmful drug. Reputable physicians all over the country are prescribing it as a long needed remedy and the news of their success is startling. It was this news of the universal success of "Neurita" which induced us to bring it to this city.

At last here is a prescription—not a patent medicine—which will positively, permanently and quickly relieve every case of rheumatism, sciatica and neuritis. It is pure negligence, entailing a continuance of your sufferings, not to try it. Particularly those who may think their cases are of long standing and cannot be cured are invited to try "Neurita," with our assurance that the ingredients are absolutely harmless.

We ask you as friends to believe this statement. Try a $1 or $2 box and have the glorious sensation of feeling the pains and aches leaving you. Compounded by Mayfurtal Chemical Co., Flatiron Bldg., N. Y.

BUT the hand he reached for did not rise at his command, though Oswald started erect and faced him with manly earnestness.

"I should have to think long and deeply," he said, "before I took upon myself responsibilities like these. I am broken in mind and heart, Orlando, and must remain so till God mercifully delivers me. I should be a poor assistant to you—a drag, rather than a help. Deeply as I deplore it, hard as it may be for one of your temperament to understand or complain an overthrow, I yet must acknowledge my condition and pray you not to count upon me in any plans you may form. I know how this looks—I know that as your brother and trusted adviser, I should respond, and respond strongly, to such overtures as these, but the motive for achievement is gone. She was my all; and while I might work, it would be mechanically. The lift, the elevating thought is gone."

Orlando stood a moment studying his brother's face; then he turned shortly about and walked the length of the room. When he came back, he took up his stand again directly before Oswald, and asked with a new note in his voice:

"Did you love Edith Challoner so much as that?"

A glance from Oswald's eye, sadder than any tear.

"So that you cannot be reconciled?"

A gesture. Oswald's words were always few.

Orlando's frown deepened.

"Such grief I partly understand," said he. "But time will cure it. Some day another lovely face"——

"We'll not talk of that, Orlando."

"We will not talk of that," acquiesced the inventor, walking away again, this time to the window. "For you there's but one woman—and she's a memory."

"Killed!" broke from his brother's lips. "Slain by her own hand under an impulse of wildness and terror! Can I ever forget that? Do not expect it, Orlando."

"Then you do blame me?" Orlando turned and was looking full at Oswald.

"I blame your unreasonableness and your overweening pride."

Orlando stood a moment, then moved towards the door. The heaviness of his step smote upon Oswald's ear and caused him to exclaim:

"Forgive me, Orlando." But the other cut him short with an imperative:

"Thanks for your candor! If her spirit is destined to stand like an immovable shadow between you and me you do right to warn me. But this interview must end all allusion to the subject. I will seek and find another man to share my fortunes; (as he said this he approached suddenly and took his depots from the other's hand) or——" Here he hastily retraced his steps to the door, which he softly opened. "Or," he repeated. But though Oswald listened for the rest, it did not come. While he waited the other had given him one deeply concentrated look and passed out.

No heartfelt understanding was possible between these two men.

Crossing the hall, Orlando knocked at the door of Doris' little sitting room.

No answer, yet she was there. We knew it in every throbbing fibre of his body. She was there and quite aware of his presence; of this he felt sure; yet she did not bid him enter. Should he knock again? Never! but he would not quit the threshold, not if she kept him waiting there for hours. Perhaps she realized this. Perhaps she had meant to open the door to him from the very first. Who can tell? What avails is that she did ultimately open it and he, fleeting her soft eye, wished from his very heart that his impulse had led him another way, even if that way had been to the edge of the precipice—and over.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Due Warning

Rotorua has been laughing over the wording of a notice that has been placed by the Public Works Department on some of the electric wire posts on the road to Okere, in New Zealand.

Some time ago a Maori youth, who seemed to have a misguided taste for experimenting, threw a long piece of cable over the electric wires that run to Rotorua from the power station at the Okere Falls.

The town was at once plunged into darkness, for two or three hours until the mischief had been located.

The dusky and youthful experimenter was carpeted in the court and fined for his scientific enthusiasm, and the department put up the notice:

"Any person climbing the electric light poles or damaging the insulators are liable to a fatal shock and a penalty of £10."

A Canoe and a Punt

A Charming Love Story

By MARGARET CHUTE

"OH Jupiter!"

"I beg your pardon!"

Back-watering with frantic energy, he managed to avert a collision between his canoe and her stationary punt by the merest fraction of an inch, then considered the situation.

Her punt was tied up beneath a weeping willow—which wept so successfully that only the protruding brown nose of the boat, the scarlet of a pile of cushions, and the gleaming whiteness of her adorable frock indicated their joint presence.

Peering through the willow, he remarked: "Tant was a near thing. Did I startle you? I'm so awfully sorry, but it's rather hard to see coming out of the glare, and you are successfully hidden, aren't you?"

In reply she dropped her novel face downward and remarked simply. "Tim! Tim!"

Like a streak of lightning his canoe shot under the willow, the painter was made fast, and he sat solemnly level with her, a beaming grin adorning his rather attractive features.

"A good angel sent me," he asserted, "or me straight out of that boiling, chattering mob to you. Fancy meeting you again after all these years, Jill."

She stiffened. "I'm busy," said she. "There are other willows, other backwaters, too."

"After all these years" reminisced the man called Tim. "How long is it—two times, only nine months? Well, I can hardly believe it."

What Luck!

"Nine months," repeated Jill, resuming her novel. "Try another willow, please."

He rearranged a scarlet cushion behind her dark curls and smiled. "What luck!" he breathed. "Nine solid, beastly months, with never a glimpse of you. And now——"

"You will kindly go away."

"Wish you? Oh, certainly. But first we'll have a real heart-to-heart talk. May I smoke? Will you? I'm glad you said 'No.' You haven't changed a scrap."

"Have I?"

"For the worse. Once you lacked confidence, I remember; I can't accuse you of that today."

A furious glance from under the dark set, longest eyelashes in the world shot forth to slay him. But he only stretched his head and still smiled.

"Funny, isn't it," he began. "We might have been man and wife by this time if it hadn't been for——"

"Your stupidity," from Jill.

"Your impatience, pardon me," from Tim. And the backwater rushes laughed aloud.

"Not at all." Thoroughly aroused, the last few battle quivering in every eyelash and darting from her shining eyes, Jill permanently discarded the novel and faced him. "I was not impatient. You were just the slowest, stillest, dullest old dunderhead in creation, and I wasn't going to waste my whole life waiting for you to make up your mind that you loved me. It's glad of that. Still, nine months isn't quite a lifetime, is it?"

"Lots of things can happen in nine months, though." Her smile was a thing of provocation and a joy forever.

His fidgeted. "Chances were for conversation," he asserted boldly. "I'm going to join you."

Her ineffectual protest fell on barren soil, and his flannel-clad figure faced her within the next minute.

"Now," he said, his eyes on her face, "we will talk this thing out. Miss Duncombe. Shall I begin?"

"I shan't help you. Well, once upon a time, as the fairy books say, a girl and a man met and talked, and danced and dined, and fell in love. At least he did. She was the daughter of a wealthy man, and he was just a nobody."

"That's not true. He was clever," murmured Jill, and then pretended she had not spoken.

The Story

"Then two," he continued, a scarlet flush spreading over his face and neck, "spent a lovely Summer up there over and part of the Winter in town, where he saw her whenever work permitted. But though he loved her better than life, he did not presume to ask her to marry him—a beaming grin adorning his rather attractive features.

"A good angel sent me," he asserted, "me straight out of that boiling, chattering mob to you. Fancy meeting you again after all these years, Jill."

She stiffened. "I'm busy," said she. "There are other willows, other backwaters, too."

"A good angel sent me," he asserted, "me straight out of that boiling, chattering mob to you. Fancy meeting you again after all these years, Jill."

Jill shook her head. "I'm bored," she said coldly. "Most you go on?"

"Then I went back to my morning paper and read of her engagement to a man with a great name and several thousands a year. Of course he knew he had only himself to blame—that he should have risked things—but as it turned out it seemed just as well that he had not let her know of it."

"The sight of that little paragraph meant the end of everything—to him—and he had to begin again. Which a week he was on his way to foreign lands—to work, to grow rich, to forget. Nine months is not a long time, but he found his feet sooner than he dreamed and life has now become one for him. So he came back to work and, incidentally, to play. And his playtime led him to backwater and a punt, and——"

Two will talk this matter over. Let me drop her side of the story. As you have said, that man and girl were very good friends and played at many things together, without knowing how or why she grew to understand how much he meant to her—what life would be without him. And she thought he cared for her.

Her Story

"You mustn't interrupt. This is my story. After a time she began to think that she was adding more to him than dozens of other girls he met and dined and danced with. Day after day went by and they were still friends—nothing more. She was too proud to let him see how much it hurt her—please, please let me go on—and so she grew colder and colder, and he thought her indifferent."

"How was he to know?" asked the man called Tim.

"How, indeed? Then one day a curious announcement appeared in the paper and he just vanished. Without a word, without a sign, he disappeared. She had no means of tracing him, though she tried."

"Jill! You——"

"She tried again and again. Another announcement appeared in the paper and still he did not come. She thought it would cripple things and bring him back if he were still in England. But he never came. Nine months went by—slow, empty months, and at last in a backwater under a weeping willow they met again."

He was sitting up, gripping the sides of the punt.

"Wait," he commanded. "I don't understand—I can't realize things. Are you sure you say just now? What second announcement? What difference should it have made?"

"All the difference in the world if you had cared," said Jill. "It simply stated that her cousin, not herself, was engaged to the man with the great name and several thousands a year. That's all."

She shook the water from her hand. "You know," she said slowly. "Good-by!"

"Good-by!" he echoed. "Good-by to you, Jill? Never again. Never again. Have I traced you here, have I watched and waited for a chance to see you again, have I followed you up a backwater in a canoe to find out the real truth, only to say good-by?"

"It is wise."

"It is not. You always were perverse—the sweetest, dearest, most perverse little angel alive. Now you must have despised me! But did the thing that seemed fairest to me! Since another man had won you, what could I do but clear out? I'm rather glad I did now."

"Has anyone ever proposed to you in a backwater?"

"No—no! I don't think so."

"Then I will now. Jill, have we waited long enough? Do you think you can understand and forgive me? If it wasn't altogether my fault, and I've paid dearly for my dense stupidity. Beloved, will you marry me? Say yes, and make me the happiest man in the whole world."

Jill, with her cheek shining with tears, sat up in the punt and said, "Yes."

A HAPPY CHILD IN A FEW HOURS

When Cross, Sick, Feverish, Tongue Coated or Bilious, Give Delicious "Syrup of Figs."

Mother! look at the tongue! See if your child is full of cold, sick headache, drooping, fail sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, peevish, can't play with everything, has stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomachache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or if full of cold. It means the little one's stomach, liver and 36 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and clogged up waste and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours the foul, decaying, constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or pain, and you will surely have a well and smiling child shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and look for the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

She Had Consumption, Was Dying; Now Well

Eckman's Alterative is being used with success in the treatment of Tuberculosis in all parts of the country. Persons who have taken it, have improved, gained weight, exhausting night sweats stopped, fever diminished, and many recovered. If you are interested to know more about it, we will put you in touch with some one who can write you. You can investigate and judge for yourself. Read of Mrs. Govert's recovery:

Griffin, Ind.

"Gentlemen: Thinking that perhaps a short history of the remarkable recovery of my mother-in-law (Mrs. Anna Govert) might benefit some other sufferer, I give the following testimonial: About September 10, 1906, she was taken sick with Catarrhal Pneumonia, and continually grew worse, resisting a trained nurse. Night sweats were so bad that it was necessary to change her clothing once or twice every night; her cough increased and got so bad that everybody expected that she would not live much longer, in fact, even Rev. Wm. Berg, of St. Michael's Church, at Shereville, Ind., prepared for her death, he recommended that I get Eckman's Alterative and see if it helped her any, some relief. I then requested she attending physician to give his diagnosis and he informed me that she had Consumption and was beyond all medical aid. When I asked if he thought that it would do her any harm for the Alterative, he replied that 'No physician could help her now and I could call myself a beast.' So I immediately had Rev. Wm. Berg to send for a bottle. Practically without hope for recovery, I insisted that she try the Alterative, which she did. I am glad to say that she soon began to improve. Now she says she has as good a ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before and is well and strong. I am glad to say that frankly says she owes her life and health to Eckman's Alterative."

(Sworn Affidavit) JOS. GRIMMER.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all Riker-Joyner Stores, Houghton & Dutton Drug Dept., and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair coming out?—If dry, brittle, thin or your scalp itches and is full of dandruff—Use "Danderine."

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose hair falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes —but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

MRS. WILKES' BLESSING

Her Dearest Hopes Realized — Health, Happiness and Baby.

Plattsburg, Miss. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved very beneficial to me, for now I am well and have a sweet, healthy baby, and our home is happy.

"I was an invalid from nervous prostration, indigestion and female troubles.

"I think I suffered every pain a woman could before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I think it saved this baby's life, as I lost my first one.

"My health has been very good ever since, and I praise your medicine to all my friends." —Mrs. VERNA WILKES, R. F. D. No. 1, Plattsburg, Miss.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some derangement of the feminine system, of which curable by the proper remedies.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal.

We challenge anyone to name even one other medicine that has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Letters of a Slim-Made Woman to Her Fat Sister

First Letter: On the Fallacy of "Training Down" to a Comfortable Size.

Dear Sis—If you could see me now you would surely wonder what witchery had wrought the transformation—for you wouldn't recognize your Anemon sister in the gracefully modeled figure gazing here.

Yes, I have a surprise for you—that huge mountain of fat you once knew as sister is no more—I'm as trim a body now as you'd meet in a day's walk. And the change from fat to just plump was so easy, and gradual, and natural, and perfectly harmless, that I didn't realize it was taking place.

You remember that horrible nightmare that confronted me every day—the physician called it "exercise"—but as I took back on it now I can call it nothing but torture. Lying flat on my back and trying to kick holes through the ceiling with my feet. Attempting to stand on my hands on a chair when nothing less than a derrick would lift my body into the air. Standing with stiff knees and trying to touch my toes with my fingers—when I couldn't even see them. And other things as ridiculous as "Exercises."

I just quit it all. A few months ago I got a mixture of 4 ounce Marmola powder, 4 ounce Cascara Aromatic, 24 ounces Peppermint Water at the drug store, took a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime—took it persistently and faithfully—and now, sis, I really have a beautiful figure, and, what's more, I'm the envy of the digestion of an ostrich. It's simply wonderful.

Lovingly, BETTY.

The Truth About the Standard Oil Letters

Collier's Weekly of October 5 says that five of the 117 "Standard Oil" letters thus far published in Hearst's Magazine are "forgeries." It does not say that the five letters in question are spurious. It does not indeed question the authenticity of the five letters nor the accuracy of their text as published, nor the fact that they were written, sent and received by the individuals named, and at the time and for the reasons stated in Hearst's Magazine.

What is it then that Collier's Magazine means when it describes these five out of 117 letters as "forgeries"? It makes the exact statement that the photographic reproductions in the magazine of five of the letters shows the use of a typewriter different from the one used in the Standard Oil offices. That is all. Collier's (incorporated), repeats the statement many times (as though it expected a denial), and publishes a letter from a typewriter manufacturer to substantiate its statements.

The explanation is very simple. Every one knows that when letters are put through a letter press, or when a carbon copy is taken, the secondary copy is often slightly blurred. Every one familiar with the photo-engraving process knows that such a copy will not photograph distinctly. The editors of Hearst's Magazine inform the AMERICAN that several of the "Standard Oil letters," while clear to the naked eye, could not be reproduced for the printing press without first recopying parts of the typewritten lines in fresh typewriting, so that the print would show as clearly in the PRINTED page of the magazine as in the original. In no other way by the art of printing could what purported to be a fac-simile of an original be made to look like the original. That is the whole story.

The Standard Dictionary defines a forgery as "the act of falsely making or materially altering, with intent to defraud, any writing which, if genuine, might be of legal efficacy or the foundation of a legal liability."

Now the great power and force and virtue of the "Standard Oil" letters is due to their truth. Their publication was of great importance solely because the letters themselves revealed for the first time the exact method used by the most powerful, successful and corrupt corporation to control the Government of the United States.

The Standard Oil letters have shown how the source of all power in this country is poisoned at the fountain head by the money of criminal corporations, not so much to maintain in power a particular political party as to keep in places of power in both parties men willing to betray their party and their country to the corporations.

What mattered the face of typewriter used in the mere reproduction in Hearst's Magazine of five out of 117 Standard Oil letters thus far printed when the letters themselves were absolutely authentic? When the guilty writers of the letters confessed sending them and the recipients of all letters confessed receiving them. Foraker never questioned his letters or certificates of deposit—but retired to private life. Senator Bailey has decided to retire to private life. He led the Democrats as Foraker led the Republicans in the Senate. Sibley never questioned his letters and he has been retired to private life. Penrose does not deny his and is on his way to private life.

When shown on the witness stand, before the Senate Committee on August 23, the entire batch of his letters published in the July and August numbers of Hearst's Magazine, Mr. Archbold admitted the genuineness of every one except the Penrose letter (the copy of which he said his secretary had been unable to find), but as to that one he admitted the payment to Senator Penrose of $25,000, which was the only important fact in the letter. And Senator Penrose testified that he received the $25,000. His letter and acknowledgement is indeed in the current Hearst's Magazine. The more these letters are read, examined and discussed the better for the country.

Collier's Weekly says at the end of its article: "Mr. Hearst has many genuine fac-similes in his possession. Photographs were made . . . of genuine, original documents. Why is he using forgeries?"

The answer is that he is not. At least five out of the 117 letters so far published (and possibly a few others yet to come, as we are informed by the editors of Hearst's Magazine) are slightly blurred, requiring re-copying before effective reproduction is possible. But there is nothing blurred in the public mind about the truth and meaning of the letters, and no one has questioned the high public service rendered by the publication of the letters, except the guilty men who have been exposed and a few others who unhappily are tortured by the envy, malice and hatred in their hearts.

A Suggestion to Business Men and All Others, Especially Women

Sign Your Name So That an Ordinary Human Being Can Read the Signature

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Once a day at least some letter sent to this office causes a consultation between experienced typesetters and others as to the letters contained in the name signed at the bottom of the letter.

It is not possible to GUESS names—however interesting and important.

There is an idiotic notion that illegible writing is a sign of genius. It is, on the contrary, a sign of slovenly carelessness.

We may not all be able to write interestingly, we may not be able to have ideas of actual value, BUT WITH EARNEST PRACTICE WE CAN AT LEAST SIGN OUR OWN NAMES SO THAT THEY CAN BE READ.

Please let us do it—at least in writing to this office.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THE POLITICAL STRUGGLE.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—For some time past I have watched with increasing interest the attitude the Boston AMERICAN has assumed in the present political struggle. It is necessary for me, in the course of my business activities, to read carefully each of the dailies, as well as a number of out-of-town papers, and the attitude of the AMERICAN impresses me as being without doubt the most unique and at the same time the fairest action in the history of newspaper management in this country.

Never have I known of any action on the part of any newspaper which so appealed to my sense of justice and honesty as the plan the AMERICAN is now pursuing—that of reporting each day the actions and speeches of each of the leaders in the fight now being waged, absolutely impartially, and of laying clear for the public mind the problems of the present day and pointing out the advantages and disadvantages of the remedies advocated, by the various candidates.

I congratulate the AMERICAN on the stand it has taken and, as well, on having been the first of the great newspapers in the country to adopt this policy. It is in line with the true spirit of progress with which the AMERICAN has always been identified, and fulfils the ideal of a newspaper, i. e., a means of putting before its readers unbiased, unprejudiced statements of fact, without regard for persons. Very truly yours,

R. M.

Money Hints to Women at Home

Special Announcement to Women Who Earn Money at Home

One Dollar will be paid for every letter contributed by Boston AMERICAN readers, and used in the AMERICAN, containing ideas helpful to those WOMEN WHO WISH TO EARN MONEY AT HOME. This department is organized to help women help themselves. It will suggest opportunities for money-making and will help those who wish to develop the ideas they are now using in their homes for increasing their incomes. Won't you please tell me what you are doing and why you are doing it, so that we may be of service to some woman who is struggling in the dark and who needs our help? Address MABEL BARCLAY URY, Boston AMERICAN.

This Department Will Appear in the Daily and Sunday AMERICAN

By MABEL BARCLAY URY

THE first thing for you to do if you want to make money at home, is to have faith in yourself. Unless you believe that you have the ability to do something for which people will be glad to pay, you are facing defeat at the start.

The greatest devil working against your heaven of happiness is the Devil of Fear. There is nothing to fear. The child does not fear the mother who wishes to give it the food it desires.

Just believe that the public is hungry—that it needs to be fed, and that you have some of the food it needs.

It may be that some sick person needs mental food. Perhaps someone would be glad to pay a weekly wage if you would visit them and read to them. People are lonely because they lack something.

Perhaps they are lonely for that which you have in abundance. Perhaps right in the next house, in the next apartment, is someone who needs you.

You know that Western saying, "Shoot from where your gun is." That means, don't wait to get into some special position, but use what you have right where it is now.

This is wisdom: To use what you have to get something better.

No matter how poor you are, no matter how limited your equipment, no matter where you live you are needed. Flood your being with the feeling that you are wanted—that there is some kind of work you can do which no one in your neighborhood can do so well—that some one wants you to do that work.

The first principle in the philosophy of success is to have a definite, clearly defined, practicable ideal. See clearly what you are fit to do. Then see what people need you to do. Then take stock—see how well you are equipped to do that work. Then adjust your equipment to the end you wish to achieve.

And then act—work—start—stick—finish.

Ties of Soutache.

A young woman showed me some pretty ties which she had made out of soutache by braiding three strands together and finishing the ends with tassels made by unraveling a portion of about two inches in length. This raveled portion was bound together in such a way as to give a head to the tassel. The ties were about a yard in length, so were ample to tie in front with a pretty bow. She charged 50 cents apiece for them and told me she had been as successful in selling to individuals that she had not tried to put any on sale in the stores.

MISS D. G., Swampscott, Mass.

Cooking Classes.

One young woman originated an idea which was very successful. While in high school she took the domestic science course, and later had taken other courses in this line. In the weekly and daily papers she inserted notices that a course in cooking for girls would start on a certain day in the kitchen of one of the churches. The class arrange ten members, each paying $1.25 for twelve lessons. From the entire mount she paid $25 to the church for the use of the kitchen and materials used. At the lessons a short talk was given, followed by practical work. One lesson was devoted to soups, another to salads, another to left-overs, etc.

MRS. R. T., Hyde Park, Mass.

Painting Banners.

One woman I know paints banners during her spare time for school classes, clubs, etc. This is how she does it:

Stretch the fabric upon a frame and finish the design and lettering. Use a size made of bleached shellac dissolved in alcohol, thinned to the proper consistency. Go over such parts as are to be gilded or painted, overrunning the outlines slightly to prevent the color from spreading.

For inside work the white of an egg makes a good size. Lay the gold while the size is still wet. When dry, dust off the surplus gold and proceed with the shading, painting, etc.

A little honey combined with thick glue is another good size.

MISS L. A. G., Cambridge, Mass.

Mustard Chow Chow.

One woman makes money every summer selling mustard chow chow to her neighbors.

Following is her recipe: One quart sliced cucumbers, one quart small onions, one quart sliced tomatoes, three heads cauliflower, six peppers, one-half pound ground mustard, one cup flour, two cups sugar, one gallon vinegar, one ounce tumeric put in drug stores). Soak pickles over night in weak brine, heat to boiling, then drain. Heat vinegar and sugar. Mix flour, tumeric, and mustard in a little cold vinegar and gradually add the hot vinegar. Cook until thick and pour over pickles.

MRS. F. T. S., Randolph, Mass.

Where Does Mr. Wilson Stand on Trusts?

By George W. Perkins

GOVERNOR WILSON is doubtless familiar with ancient history, but his recent speeches would seem to indicate that he is not at all familiar with modern history.

He condemns the Progressive party's proposal to regulate and control modern business corporations in such a way as to preserve to the people the good that is in them and eradicate the evils that exist.

He seems to have quite overlooked the fact that the principle of regulation and control has been accepted by the people of the United States. It has been repeatedly submitted to them, and each and every time the views of the people have been in accord with those expressed by the Democratic party and Governor Wilson in his recent speeches.

For instance: The plank in the Republican platform of four years ago, with regard to corporations, was as follows:

"Trusts. The Republican party passed the Sherman Anti-Trust Law over Democratic opposition and enforced it after Democratic dereliction. It has been a wholesome instrument for good in the hands of a wise and fearless administration. But experience has shown that its effectiveness can be strengthened and its real object better attained by such amendments as will give to the Federal Government greater supervision and control over and secure greater publicity in the management of that class of corporations engaged in interstate commerce having power and opportunity to effect monopolies."

Mr. Bryan bitterly opposed the program suggested, and Governor Hughes strongly supported it. After an exhaustive discussion of the subject in a strenuous campaign, the people voted in favor of it by a plurality of over a million and a quarter votes.

The Taft administration, placed in power by this same vote, made no determined, persistent effort to carry out the expressed will of the people on this subject and, as a result, we have the Standard Oil and Tobacco decisions—universally condemned except by Wall Street.

In Ohio, only a month ago, the question of the regulation and control of corporations was submitted to the people and was carried by a large vote.

If Governor Wilson honestly believes that regulations and control of interstate business corporations is not desirable then he must believe, if he is logical, that the same sort of regulation and control of banks and railroads is also undesirable. If, therefore, he is elected President, he would, if consistent, bend every effort not only to prevent the regulation and control of interstate corporations, but use all his influence to abolish the regulation and control of our banks and railroads.

The whole vast problem is interwoven. Banks, railroads, business are inseparable. You cannot disregard one without disregarding the other.

The people have approached this vast problem gradually—first regulating banks, then regulating railroads, and now it is our interstate industries. The people are satisfied as far as they have gone and therefore are going further.

Our Federal Government did not undertake the regulation and control of our banks and railroads in order to smash them up into smaller units. It undertook such regulation and control in order to eradicate the abuses then existing in the banking and railroad business which were injurious to the people.

The Progressive party believes that, in the matter of interstate corporations, the same program, carried out in the same way, would bring approximately the same beneficial results to the people of this country.
